Wayward Caboose Wheels Chart Dangerous Course From Fairgrounds

By GINGER MOORE
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Part of a Frisco Railroad caboose destined to become a new fair display decided to take one more ride Wednesday morning while fair officials were trying to transport the car from the MK&T Railroad tracks to the display area.

A huge crane was used to handle the job of moving the caboose from the tracks to a truck, which was supposed to (and finally did) provide transportation to the exhibit area. As the caboose was being raised some 20 feet into the air, a set of ten-ton wheels decided to make the unexpected trip.

Parked on a slight incline, the wheels began to move slowly as the caboose was lifted in the air, but they gained speed rapidly as they moved down the tracks.

One of the workmen, who had been on the caboose to help steady the vehicle, jumped down and valiantly pursued the wheels trying to stop them with small logs. In a final, desperate attempt he risked his life by jumping in front of the wheels and tried to push them to a stop.

He had to jump aside when the wheels continued to gain momentum. They smashed through a chain fence leading to the open roadway and managed to cross not one, but two four-lane throughfares without incident.

Meanwhile, a Missouri Public Service Co. crew doing repair work alongside the supposedly unused tracks suddenly found themselves being charged upon by the wheels. The men in the truck's bucket rig scrambled to safety and moved the truck almost off the tracks before it was struck in the front by the railroad wheels. The accident had one fortunate result—it stopped the wheels.

Fortunately, the wheels didn't damage the truck extensively and since it had a cable and boom, the MPSC crew assisted the fair authorities by placing the wheels back on the tracks so they could be pushed back to their original spot.

Back at the fairgrounds, the caboose was successfully lifted onto the truck and once the wheels are returned will be placed in its proper place for display.

The task of moving a Frisco Railroad caboose from the tracks to a display area seemed easy, until the ten-ton wheels on one end began moving slowly down the track, top. The runaway wheels crossed two roads before coming to a quick halt against a Missouri Public Service Company Truck near the tracks, center. The MPS truck was not extensively damaged and the crew quickly used the truck's cable and boom to help return the wheels to the track.

Foreign Fear Is Growing

LONDON (AP) — There was a growing fear among West Europeans today that they might become the victims of a trade and monetary struggle between a prosperous Japan and the United States, struggling to pull out of a recession.

Government officials and economists foresaw a real danger of monetary chaos and a trade war arising from President Nixon's efforts to slow the flood of Japanese goods into the United States and Tokyo's decision to fight his policies.

West European governments sought to coordinate their policies in the face of the growing threat. The European Common Market's monetary committee met in Brussels to prepare for a full gathering Thursday of the community's foreign and finance ministers.

The British government was urgently trying to arrange talks with European Common Market leaders to align its policies with London.

Foreign exchanges around the world except in Japan remained tightly shut. The London and Zurich gold markets cautiously opened their doors to business for the first time since Friday. The price of gold was virtually unchanged from Friday and dealers reported trading was practically non existent because of general uncertainty.

Governments and market operators studied implications of the American and Japanese monetary and trade conflict.

European officials see in a Japanese-U.S. conflict the threat of monetary chaos and a trade war that could drag in many other countries.

The Nixon administration severed the dollar's link with gold Sunday in a move to persuade Japan and some West European countries to let their money, which the United States considers undervalued in relation to the dollar, float up in value on the open market.

This would make more expensive the exports from those countries flooding into the United States. A 10 per cent surcharge on import duties also makes foreign imported goods more expensive in the United States.

Noboru Takeshita, government spokesman and chief Cabinet secretary, serveed notice Monday that Japan will fight Nixon's policies. He said Japan has no intention of increasing the value of the yen in relation to the dollar as Nixon wants.

The Bank of Japan was ordered to buy up whatever dollars were offered on the Tokyo market at the normal exchange rate.

If the yen maintains its present position with the dollar while some European currencies, notably the West German mark, the Swiss franc, the Dutch guilder and possibly the French franc, rise in value against the dollar, the yen will be effect be devalued in West Germany, Holland Switzerland and France. Japan's already cheap exports to Europe would become even cheaper.

Western Europe could not permit such a situation to continue without retaliation.

Shaffner Reply to Bond

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Revenue Director James E. Schaffner said today State Auditor Christopher (Kit) Bond and his staff were wrong in assuming that $14 million in sales tax revenue might have gone uncollected over a two-year period.

Schaffner came up with a list of 104 firms which the auditor's staff said it hadn't been able to find in sales tax department records.

He said some have different corporate names than the telephone book listings checked by the auditors, others were wholesalers or otherwise nontaxable and others had gone out of business.

"I do not suggest any intentional wrongdoing on your part or that of your staff," Schaffner said in a letter to Bond. "It is obvious that the mistake was made because your auditors relied upon assumptions rather than an exhaustive search for the truth."

Schaffner asked that the audit be corrected "and that you inform the public of your steps taken to correct the false impression that sales taxes were not being collected."

Schaffner referred to a letter from Bond, which he said contradicted the audit report.

In that letter Bond said:

"We further emphasize that the specific nonregistered firms discovered on the basis of your search and our additional tests would represent only a very small percentage of the six to seven million dollars we estimate as being lost annually."

Bond is on vacation but when told of Schaffner's letter, Deputy Auditor Robert L. James said the audit findings were based on conditions existing in the revenue department at that time.

He said the whole situation "is evidence to me that the files controls are not adequate ... such an exhaustive search shouldn't have to be made" to discover the facts about the 104 firms involved.

James said it would be impossible to reopen the sales tax audit at this time. He said the 104 firms represented companies revenue department employes couldn't find originally.

Jail Sharing Approved

By KEITH A. OWEN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

A long-awaited jail sharing plan between the city and the county will go into effect Sept. 1, and the new City Hall bond issue will be decided Sept. 14, the City Council decided at Monday night's meeting.

Prisoners sentenced in police court will be confined in the Pettis County jail starting in September, according to a recent agreement reached between the city and county governments.

The city will foot the bill, $5 per prisoner per day, a rate considered reasonable by the entire council. Mayor Jerry Jones revealed that a recent independent study indicated the average cost of keeping a prisoner in the Pettis County jail for one day is $5.02.

Although the plan is designed specifically for sentenced prisoners, other city prisoners may also be housed by the county. Under the agreement, the city will provide transportation to the county facility.

An election on the proposed new City Hall will be held Sept. 14 and will be paid for by Perry, Adams and Lewis, Inc., a Kansas City bonding company. Costs of the election will run about $4,000, according to City Clerk Ralph Dedrick, and the Kansas City firm will spend up to an additional $3,500 on promotional efforts to pass the issue.

Mayor Jones said the agreement between the firm and the city provides that if the issue is approved, the bonding company will handle the sale of the bonds, and if it fails, the firm has "made a $7,500 investment in Sedalia."

The voters will decide if the city can borrow the money to build the new City Hall, a maximum of $600,000 to be repaid over a period of 20 years. Actually, the amount borrowed will probably be considerably less than the maximum figure and the bonds will be set up on a 10-year repayment schedule. The amount and time limits are only technicalities, according to Norman Lewis, who is handling Sedalia's account.

Mayor Jones said the actual amount to be borrowed won't be determined until the contract is bid, hopefully by next February.

Although the bonds are to be repaid with income from the city sales tax, they are still considered general obligation bonds and therefore require voter approval. No additional tax would be levied.

On the recommendation of the Citizen's

Cablevision Plans Before City Council

Two plans to resolve the recent Cablevision rate increase dispute were put forth at Monday night's City Council meeting. One of these plans was set into motion by the city and the other, which Cablevision would like to see substituted, was discussed but rejected.

According to an ordinance passed Monday by the council, Cablevision has until Sept. 1 to refund to subscribers all money taken in beyond the old $4.90 monthly rate. If the refund has not been made at that time, the city will notify Cablevision that its permit to operate will be terminated after 90 days in accordance with terms of the franchise contract.

Should Cablevision not make the refund, and attempt to continue operation after the permit has expired, appropriate legal action probably will be taken by the city, the council decided.

James T. Buckley, Cablevision's local attorney, in an Aug. 12 letter to Robert Fritz, city counselor, suggested an alternate method of handling the dispute, which centers around the city's authority to regulate Cablevision rates.

Adding a personal explanation of the Cablevision suggestion, Buckley spoke for about 15 minutes Monday night, after the council had already chosen its course of action.

The Cablevision plan would place all revenue above the old $4.90 rate in an escrow fund pending the outcome of a "friendly" lawsuit in which the Circuit Court would determine Sedalia's authority to regulate Cablevision.

According to Buckley, should the city win the dispute, all of the money in the escrow fund would be returned to the subscribers "to the last penny" and the interest earned in the meantime would be used to cover the expenses of making the refund, the remainder being divided among the subscribers. However, should the court favor Cablevision, all money in and earned by the escrow fund would belong to the firm, under Buckley's plan.

Although no concrete measures were spoken of by any councilmen, Mayor Jerry Jones or Fritz, indications were that the

Typhoon Toll Passes Ninety At Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) — Typhoon Rose killed more than 90 persons in Hong Kong and surrounding waters today when it hit the British colony head-on with 130-mile an hour winds and 12 inches of rain.

The storm capsized a ferry, destroyed some 40 fishing boats, grounded a U.S. Navy supply ship and 25 other ocean vessels and caused floods and landslides.

Between 75 and 80 crewmen drowned when the Hong Kong-Macao ferry Fatshan capsized. Four survivors said the rest of the crew was trapped inside the hull.

A family of five drowned aboard a fishing junk, and nine others were crushed or swept to their death ashore by landslides or flood waters that destroyed their homes.

More than 200 persons were injured and 2,500 made homeless. It was the worst typhoon to hit Hong Kong since 1962, when Typhoon Wanda took more than 250 lives.

The Fatshan had discharged its passengers after a run from Macao 24 hours before. Survivors said the ship broke from its moorings during the storm, and the captain tried to shelter in the lee of outlying Lantao Island, but the 130 mph winds turned it over.

At White House

Charts Economic Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today summoned key congressional figures to sell them on the tax-cut portion of his new economic policy—a policy that already has disgruntled some labor leaders and given the stock market its best day ever.

Among those asked to the White House was Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee, who Monday called the President's new economic program "absolutely necessary" and scheduled crash hearings on it for Sept. 8, the day Congress returns from vacation.

Monday brought a worldwide whirlwind of reaction to Nixon's announcement Sunday that he would cut the dollar loose from gold, order a 90-day wage-price freeze, increase tariffs, reduce federal spending and ask Congress to cut taxes for auto buyers, businessmen buying new equipment and, starting next year, the average taxpayer.

—The New York Stock Exchange rocketed to a record single-day gain of 32.93 points in the Dow-Jones industrial average. Foreign stock markets suffered.

—AFL-CIO President George Meany said the new Nixon plan favors business and is "patently discriminatory as far as American workers are concerned." Other labor leaders were generally cool.

—Consumerist Ralph Nader called Nixon's package "a mixture of successful special-interest pleading and anticonsumer policies."

—Reaction from Congress continued generally favorable although some Democrats said the wage-price freeze won't work. Chairman Wright Patman of the House Banking and Currency Committee said the freeze should include control of interest rates. Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said such controls might prompt lenders to hoard their money, and he called on them to furnish "reasonable" interest rates voluntarily.

Connally said the administration expects to make exceptions for the wage-price freeze only in event of "catastrophic" hardship.

Shirley MacLaine Leads Busy Life

Enjoying The Action

Shirley MacLaine sparkles through her role as Shirley Logan, globe-trotting reporter-photographer, in her new television series called, naturally enough, "Shirley's World." This episode, with a lively bunch of extras, was filmed in Hong Kong. In real life, the actress keeps busy with equal zest. Besides being a movie queen, she's a best-selling author, political activist, citizen of the world — and now embryonic television star. (AP)

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Shirley MacLaine, movie queen, best-selling author, political activist and embryonic television star, zipped into Manhattan recently, a brief pause en route from Tokyo to London.

In a few hours she found time to address a worshiptul gathering at the National Democratic Club, admonishing them sternly that the first step in pollution control is population control; to announce that her personal candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination is Sen. George McGovern; to pose for publicity stills involving her forthcoming television series and to worry out loud in wall-to-wall interviews about the public reception of "Shirley's World."

With all sorts of profitable avenues open for an active career—she made two films in the past year and is working on a second book—the obvious question is why Shirley MacLaine put herself into that electronic slicing machine that chews up talent and material like a ravenous beast.

"Good question," she said soberly. "I think it is because I'm nuts. I've been asking myself that very thing every morning since we started making the series. I suspect that it is because I usually think of myself as a communicator more than as an actress or as a writer. The girl I play has something to say—about freedom, about women, even about democracy. I just hope it is as entertaining and amusing as—right now—I think it is."

In "Shirley's World," the Virginia-born Miss MacLaine plays Shirley Logan, reporter-photographer for something called "World Magazine."

Miss MacLaine is one of the new breed of stars—frank, hard-working, politically active.

She shot to stardom in a sequence of events that have become cliches through years of grade-B backstage movies. After training as a dancer her big break came the night Carol Haney, star of "Pajama Game," broke her ankle and unknown long-legged Shirley MacLaine stepped out of the chorus line into the limelight. After the show, Hal Wallis, independent film producer who happened to be in the audience, signed her to a long-term contract. When Miss Haney's ankle knitted, Shirley MacLaine quit to become a film star. Corny, trite and true.

When Shirley and Sir Lew Grade, the British movie and TV tycoon, made the deal that included films and a TV series, the actress was talking about her Trojan horse device: by exposing herself to the huge TV audience with a bright series she might persuade them to leave their sets and pay for tickets to see her movies.

Shirley Logan, heroine of "Shirley's World," will not be unlike the woman who plays her. Miss MacLain apparently never tires of travel—she has been all over the world. Her husband, Steve Parker, is an actor and director who established his production headquarters in Tokyo. The couple has homes or apartments in the Japanese city, in Hong Kong, Hollywood, London and New York. Their 15-year-old daughter, Stephanie, who grew up in Japan, is in school in Switzerland. Parker currently is interested in cotton production in Australia.

The story is that of a poignant love affair of an older woman and a young man.

Fellowship Is Subject At Meeting

The need for members of the Rotary Club to attend meetings regularly and to participate in club programs and activities in order to strengthen Rotary fellowship was the subject of the regular Monday noon meeting of the club held at Hotel Bothwell. The speaker was Aubrey Case, the club's immediate past president.

Case told of the unanimous decision of the club's board of directors to drop from membership roles all who fail to attend at least 60 per cent of the meetings, or who may be absent without board approval from more than three consecutive meetings.

While overall attendance is high and keeps the Sedalia club among the top clubs in the district, "we believe that to strengthen our club all members should be required to abide by the attendance rules," Case stated. "We believe it is impossible," he said, "to be an active Rotarian unless you participate as an active member."

Charles Hofheins, general program chairman, introduced the speaker. The meeting was presided over by Don Barnes, club president. Kirk McCrary gave the invocation and James Edwards led in group singing.

The following Rotarians were guests: Jack Steele, a former Sedalian, now dean of Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Tex.; Earl Uhler, Warrensburg, and Walter Smith, Odessa, Tex.

Robert Cook, of the Sedalia W. T. Grant store, was presented as a new club member. Also present as guests were Mrs. Merrill Strombom and Mrs. A. J. Harlan, wives of members, and Miss Monique Kariger, of Belgium, who is a guest in Sedalia under the Rotary Club sponsored Experiment in International Living program. This week she will be a guest in the Strombom home. Introductions were made by Dick Lehmer.

Search Is Halted As Hoax Surfaces

LYNDON, Kan. (AP) — Officials have halted an air and ground search that was touched off by what apparently was a radio hoax.

Osage County residents reported hearing calls for help on their citizens band radios Sunday. The calls indicated a man and his brothers were in a wrecked car somewhere between Osage City and Burlingame, one was hurt and the other probably dead.

Sheriff Harold Lusk said he would consider the incident a hoax until he receives new information.

Highway patrolmen, sheriff's officers and Topeka police joined in the search Sunday, Sunday night and Monday morning.

Ann Gives Advice On Hard Decision

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 21-year-old girl who needs your help desperately. My husband is in Vietnam. He must serve six months more over there. This separation has been very difficult for both of us. Tom and I were married only 38 days when he got his orders.

Here's my problem. I am the oldest in the family. My brothers are 16, 14, 6 and 4. Mom is dying of cancer. She wants me to stay with Dad and take care of the kids after she is gone. She says I am the only person who can care for them properly. Last night she said, "I will rest in peace knowing the little ones have you to raise them."

I want desperately to be with Tom. He will have another year to serve after he gets back from Vietnam. We have no idea where he will be stationed. I am tortured with indecision. Tom says he'll understand if I want to stay with Dad and the kids.

I know they need me, but so does my husband. And I need him. I've even suggested taking the two little ones with me but Dad wouldn't hear of it.

I am not thinking clearly these days and I need your help. Please. — Divided Loyalties.

Dear D.L.: Stay with the kids until Tom is out of the service. Your youngest brother will be in school full time by then and your Dad can hire someone to come in afternoons, prepare supper and do the laundry. This solution will allow you to leave your family with a clear conscience. You will have given your Dad and the children one year out of your life and no young woman should feel guilty for not giving more. I concede it's a great sacrifice but one you will not regret having made.

Dear Ann: The woman next door is ruining my health. Her husband has been in South America on business for three months. About four nights a week she entertains a man I know. My bedroom faces this woman's living room and she and that guy dance until 2 and 3 in the morning. Every night I swear I won't look because I have to get up at 6:00 a.m. But I can't resist the temptation and I am beat the next day. Please print this letter so I can send it anonymously to the husband in South America. Maybe if he knew what was going on he'd come home and I could get my rest. — Perfect Vision.

Dear Perfect: Your vision might be great but you've got nose trouble. Draw your blinds and get some sleep before you collapse.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a practical suggestion for that lady who was insulted because the hostess of the card party (in whose home she played three evenings a week) had a habit of handing her a package of garbage when she left and asked her to drop it in the container when she passed the alley.

Since the girls do not play for money, only for fun, why not make the garbage the booby prize? The person with the low score has to drop it on the way home. This would be not only an incentive but it would make that certain woman feel like less of a garbage collector. — Mr. From Plumfield.

Dear You: Thanks for the suggestion. And now about your language, Lovey, "Garbage Collector" went out with buggy whips and corset stays. Today the title is "Sanitation Engineer."

Alcohol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Boose And You — For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Some Doubts Expressed on Economic Policy

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's triple-twist in economic policy wins applause for boldness but raises some doubts as to workability.

It should protect the dollar and it could help curb inflation—but can it similtaneously create jobs for the unemployed?

Industry executives and economists agree in general that the nation will benefit—through lower export prices and therefore improved competitiveness in world trade—from the President's decision to stop paying out gold for all the dollars that might be presented to the Treasury by foreign governments.

Suspension of full convertibility break—temporarily, says the President—the dollar's time-honored link with gold, the U.S. guarantee to convert dollars into gold at $35 an ounce.

The dollar therefore will have no fixed value in the world's money markets. It will float—presumably downward, in transactions with strong foreign currencies like the Japanese yen and German mark—to new and more realistic rates of exchange.

It would in effect be devalued. Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally avoids the word, but most bankers and industrialists are ready to welcome it.

Americans buying American goods would see no effect. But foreigners buying goods prices in U.S. dollars would find them cheaper because the dollar would be worth less in their money.

So American goods would be more competitively priced and U.S. exports in due course would expand. At the same time imports would go up in cost; their volume might be reduced.

That would help narrow the U.S. payments deficit. Giving the dollar a more defensible and realistic value would reduce its volnerability to attack by speculators who increasingly, in recent years, have tried to score big, cheap profits by offering dollars for German marks or Japanese yen in hope of a dollar devaluation—or an upward revaluation of the other currencies.

Nixon added a potent persuader to induce Japan and other strong-currency countries to move toward more realistic exchange rates. He ordered a temporary 10-per-cent tax surcharge on imports.

On the home front, Nixon's 90-day freeze of prices, wages and rents may prove more dramatic than effective. But the action say, something his administration has never said clearly before: This time we mean business.

During the next three months Nixon's new, cabinet-level Cost of Living Council will work with leaders of industry and labor "to set up the proper mechanism for achieving price and wage stability after the 90-day freeze is over," Nixon said.

The result might be a national wage-price review board or—as some think more likely—an adaptation of the stabilization machinery imposed on the construction industry last spring.

"Working together, we will break the back of inflation, and we will do it without the mandatory wage and price controls that crush economic and personal freedom," Nixon said.

He was saying in effect that if workable voluntary measures are not adopted in 90 days, there can always be the dread alternative—mandatory ceilings, enforced by the kind of "huge price-control bureaucracy" Nixon has repeatedly deplored.

The impact of Nixon's policy reversal—from nonintervention to a freeze which Congress had authorized but never expected him to use—could in itself have a powerful deterring effect on price decisions and wage settlements.

The weak point in the President's "New Economic Policy," if there is one, seems to be in its job—creating proposals. This is largely because they depend on Congress for implementation.

And Congress may look with disfavor on Nixon's proposed 10-per-cent tax credit. Calling it a "job development credit," Nixon urged that Congress provide it as an incentive to businesses to invest in new job-creating machinery and equipment.

Only two years ago Congress killed just such a credit, the less potent 7-per-cent investment credit, because it considered the tax benefit an engine of inflation. Many Congress members have charged that Nixon went too far in the same direction when he granted business a 20-per-cent speedup in depreciation deductions earlier this year.

Nixon specified that the new tax credit should drop to 5 per cent one year hence. But this is unlikely to allay strong feeling in Congress—especially on the Democratic side—that more of the economic tonic should be fed to consumers and less to business.

The Nixon program seeks to advance by one year a $50 increase in the personal income tax exemption. The change, due on Jan. 1, 1973, would take place instead on Jan. 1, 1972. But unlike the new investment credit for business, this benefit for wage earners would have no immediate stimulative effect.

The third tax provision in Nixon's proposed "Job Development Act of 1971" would be repeal of the 7-per-cent excise tax on new cars. This, said Nixon, should stimulate sales and jobs in the automobile industry.

But the stimulative effect of Nixon's tax proposals would be offset considerably by his decision to cut federal spending $4.7 billion this year, reduce government employment by 5 per cent and postpone for six months the government pay increases due next Jan. 1.

With these points of controversy so visible in the program, Nixon can hardly hope for the prompt congressional endorsement he has asked.

Tax legislation is never quickly written; a new debate on kind and scope of tax relief conceivable could mean long delay in providing the stimulus most agree is needed.

Will Name Appointee To Position

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — A person to head up the state's new Post Audit Division will probably be named by the first of the year, State Sen. Tom Van Sickle said Monday.

Van Sickle is chairman of a subcommittee of the Legislative Post Audit Committee which is searching for a person for the job. Interviews with applicants are being carried on by the subcommittee, and it will have a report for the full committee at its next meeting on Sept. 27.

Van Sickle said 20 applications were received. The job carries a salary of $20,000 to $25,000.

The Post Audit Committee reviewed auditing procedures of several state agencies at its meeting Monday. They included Emporia State College, the Grain Inspection Department and the Armory Board.

The committee also studied housing and food allowances to determine what differences there are among departments and institutions. Its goal is to set up uniform allowances.

The Legislative Coordinating Council also met Monday. It set a $1,536,967 budget for the 1973 Legislature.

Questions, Answers On Economic Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are some questions and answers on the 90-day wage-price freeze ordered into effect on Sunday by President Nixon:

Q. What is the level at which prices, rents, wages and salaries are frozen?

A. The ceiling price or wage may not exceed the level that prevailed in the month ended August 14, 1971.

Q. What does the price freeze cover?

A. All commodities and services are effected except raw agricultural products.

Q. What about price increases which have been announced but not yet put in effect, like some of the recently announced steel increases?

A. They are suspended. They can take effect 90 days from the August 14 freeze date.

Q. If a wage contract calls for a pay increase on Sept. 1, may it take effect?

A. No. It can take effect 90 days after the freeze date.

Q. What about wage negotiations now in progress: should they be halted?

A. No, the government want them to proceed to a settlement. But any wage increases which result are to be delayed for 90 days.

Q. What happens to the cost-of-living escalator clause in many wage contracts, pinned to past consumer price advances?

A. The wage increase will be deferred. A White House statement says: "Increases in prices, rent, or wages under existing contracts will need to be deferred."

Q. What will replace the freeze in 90 days?

A. That remains to be worked out by Nixon's newly created, Cabinet-level Cost of Living Council. It apparently will work with industry and labor leaders for some form of voluntary guideline in all major industries.

Q. Could the freeze be extended if such agreements are not reached?

A. Presumably it could. And the threat remains, as a spur to the agreements, that Congress would impose mandatory controls to prevent an outbreak of increases when the freeze expires.

Q. How will be the freeze be enforced?

A. It will be "monitored," says the White House; by the staff of the Office of Emergency Preparedness. This the agency which would provide the skeleton for a price and ration control agency in time of war.

Q. Does OEP have a staff capable of nationwide price-wage surveillance?

A. Obviously not. President Nixon said: "I am relying on the voluntary cooperation of all Americans—each one of you— workers, employers, consumers—to make this freeze work."

Q. That means there are no enforcement teeth?

A There are a few. The White House says violations will be handled by the attorney general, and may be enjoined by the courts or subject to a fine of up to $5,000.

Q. Is there legal authority for such a freeze?

A. Yes, Congress passed an authorizing law last spring—but few of the lawmakers expected Nixon to use it.

Q. What's the effect on proposed telephone charge increases, increased plane and bus fares, tuition increases already announced by colleges to take effect in September?

A. Pending further orders from the White House, all are suspended until the end of the freeze, which is officially set for Nov. 12.

Q. Are individual "merit" increases in pay affected, as well as negotiated settlements?

A. Yes, under terms of the White House order.

Q. Will seasonal workers, including teachers, who signed contracts last spring for pay increases effective at school opening be barred from getting them?

A. The orders says they must wait.

Sun Should Be Avoided If You're Allergic

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Could you please give me any information about being allergic to the sun? About three years ago, whenever I would be out in the sun, I would break out in red welts and blotches and itch. Now it is getting much worse. My face, arms and back break out and my face puffs up. Is there anything I can take to prevent this?

Dear Reader — Some people call this "sun poisoning" and the exact mechanism is not known. It does behave like an allergy and the causative agent is the sun. In some people, the problem goes away spontaneously. It usually starts after a severe sunburn.

The best treatment is complete avoidance of exposure to the sun for several years. This is similar to other allergies, where it is advisable to stay away from the agent causing the allergy.

A person with this problem should cover up when he goes out in the sun — this means sleeves, a wide-brimmed hat and the works. Don't count on many of the so-called sun screens that are sold to protect you, since many of them are not effective sun screens at all. Of course, you should be seen by a doctor. There are some serious illnesses that are made worse by the sun and these require careful management.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I read your column every morning and there is one item I have never seen. Is cancer communicable? By this I mean if a person with this disease is dismissed from the hospital, with only a few weeks or months to live, could a child or a grown-up, by not being too careful in using the same utensils, be in any danger? He does want to live with them, rather than be alone.

Dear Reader — In the situation you describe, I think it is most unlikely that anyone will get cancer from the patient. We do not usually think of cancer as a contagious disease and you shouldn't add this problem to your worries. It is true that we do not know all the factors involved in cancer yet. Although there is no evidence of cancer being contagious in man, some obscure infectious process cannot be entirely excluded.

It is entirely possible that some of the forms of leukemia, or a factor in causing leukemia, are related to an infectious agent, like a virus. There is some evidence that breast cancer in women is related to an infectious agent. But we also know that sun and wind contribute to cancer of the skin. The incidence of cancer is much higher in the survivors of the atomic radiation at Hiroshima.

It is not necessarily bad if cancer and related diseases are induced in some way by some as-yet-unrecognized infectious agent. If so, it could provide a way to immunize people against cancer, which would be wonderful.

Let me repeat again, though, that we have no evidence of a people-to-people spread of cancer and I hope you will be able to put the concern you have for this matter out of your mind.

New 'Early Out' Possible For Many

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says 43,000 draftees will be sent home up to four months early in anticipation of new congressional manpower ceilings.

Pentagon sources said the Army also will have to let more personnel go, raise its re-enlistment standards or induct fewer men the next 10 months if Congress orders a 50,000-man average-strength cut in fiscal 1972.

The first step announced Monday will be early release for as many as 43,000 draftees assigned to U.S. posts. These men, most of whom already have served in Vietnam or Korea, were scheduled for discharge between Sept. 1 and June 30, 1972.

Secretary of the Army Robert F. Froehlke said this is in anticipation of the 50,000-man reduction in the Selective Service bill passed by the House and awaiting Senate action.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has criticized the bill's provision cutting the average strength over the entire year rather than setting a manpower level to be achieved by the end of the year.

Under the average-strength plan, the longer the Pentagon waits before beginning reductions, the more men will have to be cut. Laird said if the cuts begin in September it will be necessary to eliminate about 62,000 men the rest of the year to reach the 50,000-man average for the entire year.

The Army had planned on an average strength of 1,024,000 men this year, reaching a figure of 942,000 by June 30.

Because of the congressional action, the average strength will have to be cut to 974,000, possibly resulting in a smaller manpower pool at the end of the fiscal year.

However, even as the Army reduces its average strength, it will need new draftees to fill out the ranks.

No Shock To Nominee

TOPEKA (AP) — Lt. Gov. Reynolds Shultz, considered a potential candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in 1972, said he isn't surprised about reports that Robert Wells of the Federal Communications Commission may seek the nomination.

"Anybody has a right to quit any job he has and get into any race he wants," Shultz said Monday.

Although Wells has made no announcement, reports from Washington indicate he will resign from the FCC soon. The former radio executive from Garden City has been considered a potential candidate since January.

Shultz said earlier this year he would run for governor or congressman from the 2nd District. Shultz said Monday in an interview that he still has the same intentions but is not prepared to announce his candidacy.

Shultz said his position as lieutenant governor and chairman of the Kansas Economic Development Commission has "been to my benefit in additional exposure to the people across the state of Kansas."

Magnate Of Films Is Dead

RYE, N.Y. (AP) — Spyros P. Skouras, one of the last of Hollywood's old-style movie magnates, died at his home Monday night, apparently of a heart attack. He was 78.

The son of a sheepherder, the Greek immigrant parlayed a nickelodeon theater into the presidency of 20th Century-Fox.

After retiring as honorary board chairman of Fox in 1969, Skouras devoted himself to his shipping interests as chairman of the Prudential-Grace Lines.

Skouras was born in Skourahorian, Greece in 1893. The shepherd boy studied for the priesthood, but he and his brothers, Charles and George, were eager to seek their fortunes in America.

In 1914, the brothers bought a nickelodeon theater in St. Louis that was in financial trouble. They prospered and built a string of 37 theaters in St. Louis, Kansas City and Indianapolis.

After Warner Brothers bought the chain, the brothers went their separate ways in the film industry. In 1932, Spyros took over the Fox Metropolitan Theaters in New York.

He moved up to the presidency of the parent company in 1942 for a 20-year reign as chief of the studio, commanding a salary of $250,000 a year.

The financial threat to Fox created by the zooming budget of the Elizabeth Taylor-Richard Burton epic, "Cleopatra," led to changes in the studio's leadership, including Skouras' resignation as president in 1962.

Total Loss

Only this toy car in the foreground seems to have escaped the 2:30 a.m. fire Tuesday, that destroyed the residence of Mrs. Gerald Meyer, Route 1. The loss is estimated at $15,000. Mrs. Meyer and three of her four children, who were sleeping in the house, escaped injuries. One of her daughters was staying over-night at her aunt's. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

County Family Escapes From Burning Residence

At about 2:30 a.m. Tuesday, when most Pettis Countians were enjoying their sleep, an area housewife and her three children woke up feeling suffocated by the smoke and fire which engulfed their house.

Mrs. Gerald Meyer, Route 1, woke up coughing. She was shocked to see the "flames coming over us."

She grabbed her youngest child, four-year-old Ricky Steven, woke up her 12-year-old daughter, Karen Jean, who scooped her younger brother, Gerald Lewis, 7, in her arms, and together they fled from the leaping flames and fumes.

After getting out of the house they started screaming. A neighbor heard the noise, but thought it was "a bunch of tomcats fighting," she later told Mrs. Meyer.

Hearing the screams persist, the neighbor, Mrs. Charles Keele, came out and saw the fire. She called the Pettis County Fire Department, and Mrs. Meyer's father-in-law and sister.

When the firemen arrived at the scene, "the building was crumbling. The entire house and the garage, with all the belongings were destroyed, accounting for an approximately $15,000 loss," according to Mrs. Meyer's father-in-law, L. H. Meyer, Route 1.

As soon as they ran out of the house, Mrs. Meyer got into the car which was parked outside the garage and tried to start it, but it wouldn't. "Maybe, the battery was down or something," she said.

They got out of the car and with the help of neighbors tried to push it away from the burning house. After that she and the children walked to Mrs. Meyer's sister's trailer in the neighborhood, where her second daughter, Terry Lynn was staying.

Lost in the fire were Mrs. Meyer's purse which contained more than $50, plus the new school clothes she bought for the children a few days ago.

Mrs. Meyer's husband runs the Meyer Backhoe Service and was "staying in a trailer near Flat Creek Inn," she said.

Their daughter Karen said that she smelled smoke about 7:30 p.m. Monday. She thought it was rubber burning but saw nothing. The fire department said that the fire was probably due to faulty wiring.

The Meyers lived in the home for nearly 10 years. At present they are living with Mrs Meyer's father-in-law because "we have no place to go as of now," she said.

Mrs. Meyer said that several persons called her father-in-law Tuesday and have donated clothing and food.

Accidents

A Sedalia youth was admitted to Bothwell Hospital with a fractured left foot and another was treated for minor injuries and released Monday night after a two-motorcycle accident on South Ingram at the Flat Creek Junction.

Admitted was Donald Charles Eckles, 18, 2011 South Warren, who was driving a north-bound 1970 Yamaha. Gregory Brown, 17, 609 West Third, driving a 1969 Suzuki north was also involved.

According to the Missouri Highway Patrol, the accident apparently occurred when Eckles tried to make a "U" turn in front of Brown.

WINDSOR — William W. Gilmore, 62, Parkville, was treated for scalp lacerations at a doctor's office here and released after a one-car accident at 3:30 p.m. Monday on Route 52, four miles west of ZZ.

According to the Missouri Highway Patrol, the mishap occurred when Gilmore lost control of his east-bound 1971 Ford truck. The vehicle crossed the center line and then overturned, coming to rest on its right side in the west-bound lane.

The truck belonged to Goodwill Industries, Kansas City.

Police Report

Fred Williams, 1313 South Moniteau, an employe of Holiday Liquors, 3300 South Limit, reported at 2:48 p.m. Monday someone damaged a pop machine in the store sometime during the past two weeks. Entrance was not gained into the machine, according to Williams.

For the fourth time in the last two weeks, vandals struck at the Missouri Valley Sales Co., Engineer and Harvey. Manager John Turner, Otterville, reported Monday morning four windows were broken out over the weekend.

Luther McNeal, 1217 South Ingram, reported he observed two young boys take a wallet containing $15 off the dashboard of his car while it was parked in the alley behind his home Monday afternoon. McNeal told police the boys dropped the wallet when he started to chase them, but had already removed the money.

Attempting To Locate Minibikes

Sears Roebuck and Co., is attempting to locate mini-bikes which might have defective gasoline tanks, it was learned Monday.

"Although we have no reports of injury," F. J. Galloway, manager of the Sedalia store said, "we feel there is a potential hazard and urge customers who have purchased such mini-bikes (Nos. 80716, 80717 and 807660) to return them for fuel tank replacement."

Galloway said that in some cases the fuel tanks on the vehicles, when driven at high speeds over rough terrain, had experienced gas line leaks. Defective bikes will be repaired at the local store, he said.

Two Youths Perish In Bike-Car Crash

LANSING, Kan. (AP) — Two 17-year-old youths on a motorcycle were killed in a collision with a car on U.S. 73 Monday.

Sheriff's deputies said they were Ronnie Edwards of California and John Kincade of DeSoto, Kan. Edwards died at the scene, and Kincade died four hours later in a hospital.

Deputies said they did not know who was driving the motorcycle, which hit the rear of a car it was following.

Youth Is Battling Pneumonia Disorder

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Tony Wilson, 4, battled Monday for his life following receipt of an experimental drug used to combat a type of pneumonia peculiar to leukemia victims.

Officials at Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital said the drug was flown in by a Delta Airlines crew from federal authorities at the Parasitic Drug Division of the Center for Communicable Diseases at Atlanta.

Tony, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Wilson, has had leukemia two years and was reported in good condition until contracting pneumonia last week.

Hospital officials said the drug, pentamidine, is used only for leukemia victims contracting pneumonia.

Sewer Bond Committee, the city will go ahead with work on the southwest lagoon project, approved by voters in 1963. Work has been stalled on the project due to a lack of state funds.

Originally set up to be paid for with federal, state and local funds, the project has been idled for years because the state withheld matching funds. Federal money has not been available due to the state's action.

Even without the matching funds, the city is going ahead. City officials have been assured they will get the matching funds regardless of the outcome of a state sewer bons issue election set for Oct. 5.

R. W. Cunningham, city engineer, said that city officials had been told by Jack Smith of the Missouri State Water Pollution Board that the state would reimburse the city for expenditures on the project.

One of the reasons the city can go ahead with the project, according to Cunningham, is the availability of a federal grant, representing 33 per cent of the cost of the project. Cunningham said the estimated cost of the whole project is now set at $1,255,979. Of that total, the city has $554,000 set aside in its sewer bond fund. This amount could be supplemented by $401,000 in federal funds.

Cunningham said that the city, in order to qualify for the 33 per cent federal grant, must send in revisions of its current cost estimates on the project. They must then be accepted by the Environmental Protection Agency and the Missouri Water Pollution Control Board. Cunningham said the revisions will probably be sent to both agencies in about a week.

He said the city had already spent $100,000 in preliminary work on the project, including preparation of engineering plans and surveys.

Amendments to parts of the city code describing ward boundaries brought the recently annexed areas into the city's political network, and speed limits were set up on several roads brought into the city limits.

The changes place the 32nd Street Tract and the State Fair Community College tract in the Fourth Ward, while the so-called Permaneer tract will be part of the First Ward.

The speed limit on Highway 65 from 32nd to the city's edge was set at 40 miles per hour. Route B from Highway 65 to the city limits will have a 45 miles per hour maximum and 16th (Route Y) was adjusted to 35, 45 and 55 miles per hour speed limits from Thompson Blvd., to the city limits at 200 feet intervals.

Although not a part of the annexed areas, the portion of Highway 65 from Broadway to the Missouri Pacific tracks north of Main will be reduced to 40 miles per hour. Recent requests by residents in the area prompted the council to write to Missouri Highway Department officials, who granted the request.

Replacement of the faulty mercury seal at the south sewage treatment plant will be partially paid for with $2,625 in state funds and $5,250 in federal funds. Both grants came from water pollution commissions.

Bids on bituminous seal coating (slurry seal) to be used on 31 city streets and one parking lot were taken from Musselman and Hall of Kansas City in the amount of $9,620.10 and from Continental Paving, Kansas City, which bid $7,635. Both bids were turned over to the street and alley committee.

Two bids on construction of sewer lines for the Lalla Addition on east Highway 50 were taken from General Contractors, Inc., which bid $14,610.50 and from Wolf Construction Co., whose bid was $15,391.50. Those bids were given to the sewer and sanitation committee for study. The estimate on that project was $9,576.50, however.

An ordinance was passed making the driver of a ticketed car liable, rather than the owner. The measure was brought after a recent dispute over who would pay a parking fine on a car that had been leased.

Will Renew Application For Funds for Hospital

The Bothwell Hospital Board of Trustees met Monday night to discuss a variety of topics ranging from finance to resubmitting an application for Hill-Burton funds.

The board released figures listing receipts and disbursements, showing $1,156.71 on the disbursement side. These losses were termed slight and attributed to the loss in population plus "needed" improvements in and around the hospital. Furniture and sidewalk repairs as well as the addition of two pacemakers helped boost expenses, the board reported.

The board said the hospital's total receipts for July came to $265,077.66 while disbursements amounted to $266,234.37.

The hospital could be in line for a financial lift should their new application for Hill-Burton funds be accepted. The hospital was notified at the beginning of this month that they were not included in the allocation of funds for the upcoming year. Don Feeback, hospital administrator, said that the board plans to submit another application in the hope that the hospital's priority in the state will improve.

According to the board, Bothwell Hospital needs 17 new beds. The last time the hospital received funds under the Hill-Burton Act was in 1962, it was indicated.

In other action, the building committee asked the board to approve a motion eliminating parking on 14th between Thompson and Collins. The board decided to submit the motion to the City Traffic Advisory Committee. The board later approved a building committee request to remove houses in the 600 block of East 14th.

There was only one dissenting vote when the board elected to pay the $6,000 premium in the city's hospital insurance contract. After much debate last month, including meetings with Mayor Jerry Jones, the board accepted the city's insurance plan. Originally the board wanted the city to pay for the insurance.

The building committee was handed the responsibility of selecting a firm to carpet the lobby and the newly-completed gift shop. Five Sedalia firms have already submitted bids and a sixth is yet to be heard from.

The board also backed a move to convert four U.S. Treasury bonds, valued at $40,000, and reinvest them, according to Neil Chapman, board treasurer. Originally invested at 8¼ per cent interest, Chapman reported that market changes have forced the reinvestment at seven per cent. The bonds will mature in 1975.

The Occupational Safety and Health Act and Title VII of the 1967 Civil Rights Act also were reviewed to update employment practices at the hospital.

Cablevision

city will take Cablevision to court if the firm persists in leaving the rate at the increased level of $5.90.

Also without official confirmation, it was indicated the city may seek to by-pass low courts and go straight to the Missouri Supreme Court for a decision on the matter, should the need arise. Fritz termed such action as one of the alternatives available to the city. Mayor Jones said even though the Cablevision plan might have the same result if the city wins its case, the firm could drag out court proceedings for as long as two years.

A direct hearing from the state's highest judicial body would greatly shorten legal action on the issue, it was reported.

As Mayor Jones put it, the council, as well as the public, will be "anxiously awaiting" Cablevision's decision.

Five Area Youths Hurt In Accident

(Democrat-Capital Service)

KANSAS CITY — One area youth is still listed in serious condition as a result of a two-car accident here about midnight Saturday.

James Allen, 14, Knob Noster, was reported in serious condition at Children's Mercy Hospital Monday after sustaining severe head and internal injuries when the car in which he was riding left Ward Parkway, traveled across Meyer Circle scraping a fountain there, and struck a tree at the southwest corner of the intersection. The vehicle careened off the road after colliding with a car driven by Robert Gentle, Kansas City, who was not injured.

Two other passengers in the first car, Roy T. Wilson, 16, Knob Noster, and John Allen, 17, brother of James, were listed in fair condition at General Hospital Monday.

The driver of the car, Charles B. Barb, 18, and his brother, Steve, 13, both of Warrensburg, were treated at General Hospital for cuts and bruises and released.

Elegant Touches for Fall Classics

Solid red is good for fall, and any woman will be a glowing beauty in this knit dress shown at left. It has an empire waist with a touch of oriental gold to offset its simplicity. At center is a tweed plaid shirtwaist that's a classic in its own time, and a favorite too, because it can be machine washed. At right, for afternoon strolls, is a creamy battle jacket and stovepiped slacks outfit.

Polly's Pointers

Use Cushion As Sewing 'Center'

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — When hemming a skirt or dress by hand, place a cushion on your lap and have finer work that is easier to do.

When doing embroidery work, try using a corduroy cushion, preferably one with a large button in the center. This center holds the thimble and small scissors, all the different colors of floss needed are placed at one corner, a skein of floss divided for work on another corner and there is apce left for the unusable short ends. The floss sticks to the corduroy and is kept orderly. When work is stopped for the time being the material being worked on stays on top. — M. B. L.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I was recently given a cowhide leather Bible cover but it has an overwhelming musty odor. Is there anything that will eliminate this? — EVELYN

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is the neglect of the small woman in the 30-to-50 age group who has a good figure, looks younger than her age, wants to dress stylishly without having to wear the very young and juvenile or hippie fashions she finds in size 8. I find so many of the clothes in small sizes are faddish and not suited to us forgotten ones. I wish we could see more publications frequently featuring the "typical" woman and show that they, too, can look stylish and lovely and be suitably dressed — not too young-looking and not too matronly. — SARA

DEAR POLLY — All Mrs. S. A. C. has to do to solve her problem with the metal bathroom stool is to remove all the paint and then sand with fine sandpaper. At an auto supply store, buy a small can of body primer and spray this on the stool. It dries very fast, then she can apply the paint of her choice. This works well for me. — EDWARD

DEAR POLLY — To make an extra dirty clothes "hamper," use a pillowcase held to two coat hangers by six clothespins, three on each hanger. The pins stay in place better if you first crochet around the hangers. — MRS. R. E. P.

DEAR GIRLS — When a house plant needs support to hold it up, a wire coat hanger works well. Hold hook, pull hanger out as straight as possible with two wires close together, then bend the hook so it is at a right angle. Stick end in dirt and catch hook around the stalk that needs support. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — We should all be interested in cleaning up and beautifying America so I have an idea for picking trash up off the ground without touching it and getting polluted myself. Saw the head off an old mop or broom, then nail a 16-penny nail up into the center of the circle for about one inch, file off the nail head and sharpen the end to a sharp point. Put on canvas gloves and you are set to pick up scraps and garbage without bending over or even touching it. — C. S.

Karate Star Is A Female

By THOMAS P. MILLER
Reading Eagle Staff Writer

READING, Pa. (AP) — In these liberated 70s it is no surprise to find a girl like Kim Fritz with two four-foot-high trophies and over 40 other awards, for—of all things—her karate talents.

In fact Kim, a recent high school graduate, is the No. 1 karate competitor in the United States, and she only began studying karate two years ago. She wanted a little knowledge of self-defense, but found she loved it.

Her first competition came after three months of training. At first she hesitated to compete in the rough New York International because she was afraid of getting hurt. She does not hesitate to say, "I don't like pain."

Her efforts resulted in her taking second place in kata, which is the competition for form, and fourth place in free-sparring. Since that first foray into karate contests, she has amassed 45 trophies. She holds a first degree brown belt, too.

In this "age of the body," as Kim puts it, karate develops a tremendous amount of mental as well as physical awareness and discipline. Balance and mind-over-matter are the keys to the exercises that teach the student to strike with full body weight.

The remarkable thing is that there is no physical contact in karate. "It takes quite a bit of self-control to pull a punch three inches from someone's nose, or kick past an ear, disturbing only a few hairs," Kim remarked.

Karate is as much a state of mind as of physical strength, she pointed out. Related to Eastern mysticism, karate demands that the karate ka, the term for a student of the art, be mentally conditioned not to feel pain.

Kim also explains that women usually pick up karate faster than men, since men have to unlearn so many fighting techniques which are not acceptable in karate. Women are usually in better physical shape too, since they keep themselves physically active doing housework.

Women Invited To Club Meeting

Area women have been invited to attend the Thursday meeting of the Sedalia Christian Business and Professional Women's Council at 6:30 p.m. at Flat Creek Inn.

Speakers will include Mrs. Ken Wiebe, wife of a Kansas city physician, and Miss Beverly Long, area home economist.

The council is part of an international organization and has no dues or membership fees. Reservations can be made by calling Mrs. Walter Gordan, 826-6077.

Rodeo Wife Is Sure Of Husband

NEW YORK (AP) — It started in Memphis last September with five broken ribs and a punctured lung. It was followed by fractured facial bones in Oklahoma in December and torn knee cartilage in March.

Dickey Cox is a rodeo cowboy specializing in bull riding and these are the scars of his trade during the past year.

"In the nine years he's ridden professionally, he's been lucky," said his friendly brunette wife, Judy. "He'd never had anything worse than a pulled muscle. Now, all of a sudden he's getting hurt. Maybe it's time for him to stop."

For Judy, who grew up with Dickey in McKinney, Tex., and married him 14 years ago when she was 17, rodeo is as much a part of her life as her dishwasher. It's beans one day, steak the next. It's dust in her beehive hairdo and pungent animal odors, and home is a motel in Mangrum, Okla., or Cody, Wyo., or Livingston, Mont.

She insists that she thrives on this life, although she admits Dickey's eight-second rides seem to last a long time. Cox is required to remain aboard his 1,600 pound Brahma bull for eight seconds in order to win a check.

Most of the time he does—he won $14,000 last year—but recently he has been having his problems. Judy Cox was watching at the national finals in Oklahoma City when Cox's bull, known around the circuit as the infamous number V-16, jerked him down and butted him in the face, destroying the facial bones on his left side.

"I don't sit around and make myself sick like some of the other wives," she said. "I actually worry more when he's driving long distances or flying around in those small planes. But I know I'll worry more when he starts riding again, now that he's been hurt."

Cox will be grounded until the first of the year because of the knee injury, but he hasn't exactly been deprived of a livelihood. He has been judging rodeos for $100 a performance, including a recent run at Madison Square Garden here.

"I don't like to judge at all," the husky, leathery cowboy, said over dinner at a fancy steakhouse, his 10-gallon hat resting on the seat beside him. "But you've gotta do something when you're crippled."

When she's home, Judy helps tend their 200-acre rented ranch in Walnut Creek, Tex., an outpost of 490 persons midway between Waco and Fort Worth, and chauffeurs the oldest of their two children, Kenneth, 12, to junior rodeos.

"When he was a year and a half, he fell out of the car, fractured his skull and had to have surgery," she says. "I'm glad he likes rodeo so much because it keeps him out of trouble, but I'm scared thinking about what could happen if he fell again."

Bunny Mother Likes Her Work But Doesn't Like Her Title

By PEACE STERLING
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Attractive, vivacious, bright Elizabeth Yee has a job which includes hiring, firing, counseling, supervising, costuming and filing constant reports on 90 similarly endowed girls. And there's only one thing she doesn't like about it all—her title.

"I hate being called 'Bunny Mother'," Miss Yee says, her dark eyes snapping, though still crinkling with humor. But she is, in fact, in charge of the Bunnies at the Playboy club here, and it's no easy job.

"This is a very big business, and it's focused entirely on the girls," Miss Yee says. "So when you're supervising them, it's very important to learn how they feel and at the same time show them how the job works."

Miss Yee spent a week at the Playboy headquarters in Chicago being trained for her job, but she says her own experience as a Bunny also helped.

"I know about their problems, because I've been through them myself," she says. "If a girl comes in and tells me how much her feet hurt, I know. I don't just shrug it off."

Miss Yee says most of the girls like working at the Playboy Club because of the flexible hours and good salary. "It's especially attractive for models and actresses," she says, "since if they get a sudden booking, they just have to call and let us know they won't be in."

And she adds, once hired, the girls know they will be well-protected. "They are not to be verbally abused," their Bunny mother states firmly. "If they are, and it is blatantly the customer's fault, his club key will be pulled."

But it works both ways. Miss Yee admits customers ask Bunnies for dates frequently, and they are not allowed to go. "They are told to say, 'I'm terribly sorry sir, but we aren't allowed to go out with customers. If the customer persists, the floor manager will take care of the situation," she says.

And what happens if a Bunny doesn't follow the rules? "She's fired," Miss Yee says.

The image of a Bunny, Miss Yee says, is, "a young, fresh, personable young lady," emphasis on lady, and when she's hiring new Bunnies she keeps those factors firmly in mind.

Cottontail Keeper

Elizabeth Yee's job is to look after the 90 bunnies at the New York Playboy Club. She loves her job, but finds her job title objectionable.

The first thing I look at—naturally—is physical appearance," Miss Yee says. "And then I want to know about recent jobs and marital status. Although we have about 20 married Bunnies now, I want to make sure a girl doesn't want to work here just to get away from her husband."

When a new Bunny is hired, she has a week's orientation course, Miss Yee explains. At the end of that time, she must pass a written test, and after a month she has a review course. At the end of three months a girl is taught how to serve food.

And it's not simple. Miss Yee's training manual is filled with chart after chart of cocktail recipes, proper glass sizes, a kind of shorthand for writing down orders, proper billing procedures, etc.

And even getting dressed is complicated. "Each girl usually has three costumes," Miss Yee says. These include plain pumps, support hose (both for comfort and appearance), patterned hose, the shell, a rosette with the Bunny's name on it, white collars and cuff, and the famous cotton tail. There are four seamstresses working full-time to maintain the costumes.

Miss Yee says the average stay for Bunnies is only three to six months. But, she adds, one Bunny in New York has been working at the club for seven years. "There's no retirement age," she says—"as long as they look good."

Hill-Burton Notes Silver Anniversary

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has proclaimed this week "Hill-Burton Week" in Missouri.

The proclamation commemorates the silver anniversary of the signing of the Hospital Survey and Construction Act of 1946 by President Harry S. Truman.

Since then, $89,085,203 in federal Hill-Burton funds have flowed into Missouri to build or improve 225 health facilities in 88 communities. Nationally, $3.6 billion has been spent under the program.

As originally conceived, Hill-Burton funds were to be used to construct medical facilities in rural areas where services were lacking. Since then, however, rules were changed to permit use of the funds to modernize substandard facilities.

Which brings us to Sedalia.

It has struck us as something of an injustice that neither of the two recent Bothwell Hospital expansion bond issues (both of which were defeated) did not make any provisions for matching federal Hill-Burton funds. Local taxpayers were asked to carry the entire burden.

While it is true that Bothwell Hospital has received more than half a million dollars in Hill-Burton funds over the last 15 years, some other Missouri cities appear to be more successful in tapping the federal till.

For instance, Jefferson City's hospitals have seen their expansions smoothed with a whopping $3,114,041 in Hill Burton funds. Cooper County Hospital in Boonville received $1 million, and even Warrensburg was able to pin down $801,075.

Considering the wide geographic area served by Bothwell Hospital, and the inadequate number of beds to do the job, why can't Sedalia get a better shake in Jefferson City?

When in Rome, Keep Your Wife at Home

By ART BUCHWALD

(When Art Buchwald lived in Europe, he discovered Italian men can make life very miserable for American husbands. That's why he moved back to the United States.)

ROME — The big mistake was taking my wife to Rome in the first place. Any American husband in his right mind should know better than to bring his spouse to Italy, particularly for the first time. But I underestimated the Italians, which is kind of hard to do.

Buchwald

It all started when my wife came back to the Excelsior Hotel from a shopping trip to the Via Condotti. She had a big grin on her face.

"What's so funny?" I wanted to know.

"Three Italians flirted with me on the street today," she said, pleased with herself.

"Well, don't let it go to your head," I warned her. "They flirt with everybody."

"Don't be too sure," she said. "Besides, the Roman men make you feel like you're really a woman."

"I make you feel like you're a woman, too," I said angrily.

"Did you ever call me blue eyes?" she wanted to know.

"No, and for a very simple reason. You don't have blue eyes."

"That's not the point. Even if they lie, they do it beautifully. I think Italian men are wonderful."

I decided to drop the subject before I really lost my temper. But the next day, after another shopping tour, there she stood with the same smile on her face.

"Okay," I said, "what happened today?"

"A traffic policeman stopped all the traffic on the Via Veneto so I could cross the street."

"Big deal," I said. "It so happens that traffic policemen are supposed to stop traffic so people can cross the street. That's their job."

"When the light is green?" she asked. "Then, as I crossed, he tipped his hat and all the cars were blowing their horns. It's never happened to me in any other city."

"Of course, it hasn't. In most cities traffic cops are trying to save people's lives," I said. "So he tipped his hat. He was just looking for an opportunity to take it off. Those helmets can get very hot, you know."

"Don't be so smart," she said. "If you want further proof that Italian men really care, this morning I ordered a coffee at Doney's and the waiter couldn't have been nicer."

"So what? Some waiters are nice. What does that prove?"

"Nothing, except HE picked up the check."

She was getting impossible, and the next afternoon I was afraid to come back to the room.

The smile was waiting for me.

"I know," I said. "You went to Bulgari's and the salesman gave you a diamond necklace as a free souvenir from Rome."

"Nothing that dramatic," she said. "But a taxi driver asked me to go dancing with him tonight."

"Wait a minute! You don't speak Italian. How do you know he asked you go to dancing tonight?"

"He held up his hands as if he was holding somebody in them, and he hummed a waltz."

"What's so great about that?"

"The cab was moving while he did it."

There was nothing I could say to that, so I tried to walk out of the room.

"I think you're absolutely terrible," she said. "Everyone has been so nice, and all you want to do is to throw cold water on me. You American men just don't know how to appreciate a woman."

"Is that so?" I said. "Well, it so happens I have a cousin who went up to a girl on Fifth Avenue in New York and told her she had the most beautiful figure he had ever seen, and he's now doing 20 years in Sing Sing. Ever since then I've kept my thoughts to myself."

Named America

America was named for Amerigo Vespucci, an Italian reputed to have made four voyages to the New World for Spain. Martin Waldseemuller, the German geographer, first used the name to honor Vespucci in a book published in 1507.

Japanese Needles

Hiroshima, where about 75,000 people died from the explosion of the first atomic bomb dropped on a city in 1945, produces 80 per cent of the needles used in Japan, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

How the U.S. Helped Mao Come to Power

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Intriguing details are now seeping out of Peking about the struggle between the two titans of communism, Russia and China, which glare hotly at one another across the somber Siberian steppes.

Some Chinese officials, in the flowery language of the Orient, speak of the struggle as "The Dance of the Bear and the Dragon."

In wary conversations with Westerners, the Red Chinese are now telling their side of the story.

The Chinese Communist party started out as a branch of the Comintern, controlled body and soul by Moscow. The Kremlin sought to organize a Soviet-style workers' revolution in China, with the new factory workers of the cities as the base.

But Mao Tse-tung, rejecting Soviet dogma as less valuable than excrement which at least could be used to fertilize the fields, gained control of the party and organized a peasants' revolution rooted in the soil.

His chief rival, Li Li-san, fled to Moscow. Li returned at the end of World War II with the Soviet troops that marched into Manchuria and again sought to bring the Chinese Communists under Soviet influence.

Not only did Mao prevail, but he made friendly overtures to the U.S. Washington rebuffed his offer of friendship, furnished military aid instead to Chiang Kai-shek and forced the Chinese Communists back into an alliance with Russia.

With the bitter comment that Americans think "the moon in America is rounder than the moon in China," Mao became an implacable foe of the U.S.

But more pragmatic Chinese officials, including Premier Chou En-lai, reportedly favored maintaining contacts with the U.S. in order to avoid domination by the Soviet colossus across the border.

Some of them now claim that the Kremlin pushed China into the Korean war and tried to goad China into the Vietnam war to inflame American opinion against the Chinese. These officials attribute a quarter century of Chinese-American enmity largely to Soviet Machiavellianism.

In any event, Mao was never a willing puppet, and strains soon developed in the Chinese-Russian alliance.

Today the Russians have deployed 45 crack divisions along their eastern frontier, and hundreds of missiles have been installed within striking distance of China.

We were the first to report, quoting a top-secret U.S. intelligence report, on June 12, 1969, that "Moscow may stage hit-and-run strikes at China's nuclear laboratories and armament centers in order to eliminate China as a nuclear threat."

The Red Army marshals still believe, according to the latest intelligence reports, that Peking understands only strength and considers concessions to be signs of weakness.

A nuclear cloud, therefore, still hangs ominously over China, causing the feverish construction of underground tunnels and fortifications.

The prospect of a Chinese-American rapproachement, meanwhile, has given the world's balance of power a tilt — a tilt that Moscow clearly regards as menacing. Intelligence reports indicate that the Kremlin was severely rocked by President Nixon's approach to Peking.

Secret Meeting — The American ambassador paid a secret call upon the Burmese foreign minister recently to enlist Burma's cooperation in cracking down on the opium traffic. The Burmese leader promised only to establish "liaison" but would make no meaningful commitment. A confidential State Department report attributes his attitude to Burma's "reluctance to cooperate with any major power and addiction to secrecy." Without naming any names, the report also confirms our stories that many Southeast Asian officials have been corrupted by the drug traffickers and protect their smuggling operations.

Kennedy Center — When we spoke to editor Norman Cousins about the Saturday Review's cozy relationship with the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, he promised to investigate. He has now called back to defend the magazine's music critic, Irving Kolodin, who wrote a favorable cover story about the Kennedy Center at the same time the Saturday Review had contracted to publish the center's magazine-programs with Kolodin as editor. Cousins said a similar contract with New York City's Lincoln Center had not affected Kolodin's trenchant commentary on the center and its performances. Cousins said, however, that if he had been aware of the controversy over the Kennedy Center's design, he would have made sure Wolf von Eckardt's comments appeared in the magazine. Von Eckardt, the architecture critic for the Washington Post, submitted a column as part of a regular series he had been writing for the Review. It was killed allegedly because he strayed off the subject of architecture. He also spoke to Kolodin and Roger Stevens, the center's dedicated chairman. Both insisted nothing unethical had occurred. Kolodin said his cover story on the center, written at the same time he was its programs editor, was "not only proper but an appropriate use of editorial judgment."

President Responded To Critics

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's abrupt change of economic policy came only after masses of evidence showed that his stand-pat posture was working only to make his leadership appear anemic.

From the first month in office, Nixon had asserted in one way or another that any course of direct intervention, such as through controls, would be sabotaged by gremlins living in a jungle of red tape and blue pencils.

The course he chose relied entirely on what economists believed was the slow but permanent changes that could be brought about by financial and monetary policy. Personal leadership and presidential power were shunned.

But, as inflation and unemployment continued, and as the price of American goods began to force them out of markets, the President found it harder to look on the bright side of things.

Statistical evidence from the government itself undermined all the promises and assurances. His office was put in the embarassing position of always promising that things would be better next month. They weren't.

Surveys of consumer confidence showed that the President wasn't believed, and that his attempts to assure the people sometimes made them suspicious that things might be worse than they actually were.

The criticism came from all directions. Arthur Burns, who had been appointed head of the Federal Reserve Board by Nixon, began insisting on a more vigorous policy of wage and price restraints.

And the jabs became sharper from the President's political foes. Sighting what they interpreted to be a vacuum of leadership, Democratic and Republican critics made plans to seize the initiative

The failure of the President's policies to hold down wage and price increases. it is widely believed, resulted from knowledge that he was rigidly against interjecting himself into the marketplace.

If labor or management had any fear that they might incur his wrath or counteraction by raising their charges, it was dispelled by none other than the President himself in frequent statements.

This left openings for both big business and big labor to defy the "laws" of the marketplace. Pressured by rising costs, they sought relief in raises, despite high unemployment and lagging orders.

Business and labor leaders said they couldn't be blamed, that they had little choice but to raise their rates if they were to keep faith with their shareholders or membership.

Nevertheless, both made it known that they didn't like the situation and feared the consequences of the inflation spiral.

In the consumer polls, which were received by the White House, the fears of blue collar workers were shown to be intensifying. Confidence went into a tailspin after May. Blue collar workers talked of strike controls.

It became widely accepted that there was a gap at the top which provided a flue for the heat spiral of wages and prices.

From every direction therefore—from economists, businessmen, politicians, associates, consumers—the pressure was on the President to plug the gap, and he did so.

The firmness with which he reversed policy was totally unexpected. Many critics thought the President was too set against such action.

In acting so decisively, Nixon could have had in mind the 1960 election, in which he believes he lost the presidency because of a recession. That fear could have been revived.

At any rate, in versing himself the President has irreversibly changed not only the American economy and those of countries related to it through commerce, but has changed the domestic political scene for 1972.

Here is a beautiful defensive play taken from Jeremy Flint's "Tiger Bridge." Since he doesn't tell us who the tiger was, we will assume that Jeremy himself was the hero.

East held the first trick with his king of clubs and looked over dummy. It was apparent that West held the club ace. If he also held the jack and nine, a club return would take care of South's chances immediately. East also saw that clubs would keep, since East's queen of diamonds was a sure entry.

Suppose West held the ace of spades and ace-nine-eight of clubs. Then a club return should be made immediately.

East decided this was unlikely. He knew that South was almost sure to hold the spade ace. Without that card, he would have responded with a maximum of one queen and two jacks and South was not that sore of bidder.

After this preliminary thought, East decided to play for a one-trick set with two clubs, two hearts and one diamond. This left a problem. How could he get his partner to return a heart when he got in with the ace of clubs?

East played back the nine of spades! Then, when he got in with the diamond queen and played the club to his partner's ace, West knew the suit to lead back.

Royals Drawing in Near Record Numbers

(Democrat-Capital Service)

KANSAS CITY — A finish as far up in the first division as possible logically continues to be the Kansas City Royals' foremost objective. But the Royals have another target before closing the books on their third—and best—American League season.

They'd like to wind up the final season in Municipal Stadium with one of the top three or four attendance figures in Kansas City's 16-year major league history.

The Royals have an honest shot at doing just that, too, with Bob Lemon's charges maintaining a firm grip on second place in the A. L. West and holding on to an outside chance of catching front running Oakland.

Several of the remaining 22 home dates will be spiced with "extras" for the fans with such events as Team Picture Night, a Royals husband-wife softball game, Back-to-School-Teen Night, Family Night, Hot Pants Night and Radio-TV-Fan Appreciation Day on the docket.

The Royals' best year in attendance so far was their first. They drew 902,183 paying customers in that 1969 campaign. That mark seems certain to tumble this season. Through 51 home dates, the Royals had played to 712,009 fans at home. This averages out to 13,981 per opening. An average of 9,000 for the final 22 openings would allow the Royals to surpass their '69 total.

The next objective would be bypassing the total of 963,683 who went through the Municipal Stadium turnstiles in 1959. That was Kansas City's third best attendance year. And the magic mark of 1,000,000 is not out of reach as many felt it would be when the season opened. The Royals can reach that milestone by averaging 13,091 for the remaining home games. That's some 900 below the present average.

The million mark has been reached previously only in 1955 and 1956, the city's first two major league seasons.

Nothing matches artistic success, which the Royals have been enjoying. In fact, the winningest season ever for a Kansas City team seems almost a certainty.

The Royals already had claimed 63 victories (against 55 losses) through Sunday. Kansas City's winningest team recorded 74 wins in 1966, and the Royals are well ahead of the .474 percentage (73-81) of the 1958 days. The Royals left Boston playing at a .534 clip, after sweeping the Red Sox.

Eight American League teams still have visits scheduled in Kansas City, including a two-game engagement by Oakland its super hero, 22-game winner Vida Blue.

The Athletics, who resided at Municipal Stadium for 13 years, will make their final call to the 49-year-old stadium for night games on Sept. 13 and 14.

The Royals' other four Western Division rivals also come to town along with pennant-minded Boston, long time fan favorite New York and Ted Williams' Washington aggregation from the East.

Three doubleheaders spice the fare, starting with a twinighter against the Senators Friday at 6 p.m., which ushers in a 10-game stay at home. Milwaukee will call for a twinight twin bill on Labor Day and Minnesota and the Royals will square off in a day doubleheader on Sept. 26, in the last scheduled baseball game in Municipal Stadium.

The promotional bill starts off swiftly during the coming homestand with Team Picture Night on Saturday, Aug. 21 (Washington), and the Royals husband-wife softball game the next day.

The high school and college set can look forward to Aug. 27 for a Teen Night, when the Royals play the Yankees.

The last Family Day will be held on Sept. 12, when the improved Chicago White Sox are visiting. Dad pays regular price that day, but Mom and the youngsters are charged just $1.00 apiece.

Sept. 13 — the first night of the Oakland visit — is being billed as "Beauty in Hot Pants Night." Details of the event will be announced soon.

Reds Come Alive

Late Single Sinks Cards

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati outfielder George Foster was so excited about his game-winning single in the ninth inning that he had trouble finding first base.

Foster stroked the single off ace St. Louis reliever Frank Linzy and the hit scored Tony Perez from second base for a 6-5 Reds victory.

"I was so interested in watching the play that after I hit the ball I couldn't remember if I had touched first," said a jubilant Foster. "So I went back to make sure I did."

The single gave the Reds their fifth victory of the season against the surging Cardinals who lost one game on Eastern Division leading Pittsburgh which drubbed Houston. The hit also completed a comeback in the game that St. Louis starter Steve Carlton had well under control until the eighth inning when Cincinnati erupted for four runs.

Clay Carroll, who had only allowed two runs since the first week in July, yielded a two-out, two-run homer to Joe Hague in the ninth to knot the score 5-5 after the Reds had mounted a 5-3 margin in the eighth.

Joe Torre, the National League's leading batter, had clubbed a two-run homer in the fourth—his 18th of the year—to put the Cardinals up 2-0.

Marshall Men Win Big in Tournament

Jim LaRue and Rob Ravenhill, a pair of Marshall tennis players, took first and second place respectively in the men's open division singles competition during the Sedalia Invitational Tennis Tournament over the weekend.

LaRue and Ravenhill combined their talents in the men's doubles to win that competition as well.

Finishing behind the two Marshall entries was Steve Poort, Sedalia, in third place.

Rayanna Hall, Sedalia, captured the women's singles; the men's senior singles championship was won by Earl Finley, Sedalia.

Charles Lane, Warrensburg, was the title winner in the junior division men's singles category.

Thersa Barr and Michelle McGrath, both of Sedalia won the women's doubles; Dave Porter and Jean Eschbacher captured the mixed doubles.

Cindy Heeren, Miss Sedalia for 1971, presented trophies to the top finishers following Sunday's finals.

Water Exhibition

An exhibition of swimming and diving will be presented Wednesday night at the Surf Club, located in the Walnut Hills Addition on West 16th Street.

The exhibition will begin at 7 p.m. and will feature girls and boys ages five through 17.

There is no charge for the exhibition and it is open to the public.

Saban Looks Ahead

Denver Broncos' Coach Lou Saban reflects to newsmen Monday on his team's hopes for the 1971 season, Monday, in Denver. Saban is hoping to break better than a .500 average during the '71 campaign. He commented that he is pleased with this year's players and hopes to smooth out all the wrinkles before the league season begins in September. (UPI)

Race and Jones Will Meet In Title Contest

Harley Race, a 250-pound Braddyville, Iowa, heavyweight, will risk his Central States wrestling championship in the feature match of a five-event professional ring card at Convention Hall tonight. Action gets under way at 8:30.

Race will be opposed by 280-pound Rufus Jones, who finally succeeded in getting the champion into the local ring last Tuesday after three weeks of patience. Jones defeated the hefty Iowan in a death match to cinch his claim as the top challenger.

Six-man team action also is on tap tonight. Steve Bolas, Danny Little Bear and Ronnie Etchison will pool talents to take on Buddy Austin, Bob Orton and Tor Kamata.

Single matches pit Bolas against Austin, Little Bear against Orton, and Etchison against Kamata.

The next wrestling show after tonight will be held on Sept. 7, following completion of the State Fair.

Need More Players

Sedalia Khoury League Soccer President Duane Slagel said Tuesday that more six and seven-year-old boys are needed for the Atom B division this fall in the soccer league.

Boys may obtain registration cards at Hurtt Pharmacy or IGA Foodliner.

Majestic Prince, 1969 Kentucky Derby winner, was sold by Spendthrift Farm to Frank McMahon for $250,000 at the 1967 Keeneland yearling sales.

Baltimore Faces Tougher Schedule

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — The Baltimore Colts, taunted in 1970 for playing an easy schedule and left for dead by some after the second game, open the 1971 National Football League season as defending champions.

Baltimore scrambled to an 11-2-1 record in regular season play a year ago without silencing their critics, but then defied the experts by winning the Super Bowl.

The Colts were hardly impressive as they edged eight opponents by margins of eight points or less. Only three Colts—all defensive players—were named to the Pro Bowl game, and not a single one made the All-NFL first team.

But they won.

They did it with a fine defense, special teams which provided good field position, and an offense which made the big play when necessary.

This season, the Colts will face a tougher schedule. Two of their six interdivision foes won championships last year and three others finished second.

For the second time in four seasons, venerable quarterback John Unitas will be sidelined by an injury as the campaign begins, with Earl Morrall taking over the No. 1 spot.

Unitas is progressing more rapidly than expected from a torn Achilles tendon suffered during the off season. But the team gains well behind Morrall, who like Unitas is starting his 16th NFL season.

An injury to Morrall, would be a problem, however, since he is backed up only by rookie Karl Douglas and Sam Havrilak, a third-year pro halfback who played quarterback at Bucknell.

The Colts, usually a bit weak on the running game, appear to be overloaded at that spot this year.

Tom Matte, sidelined most of last season with a knee injury after gaining 909 yards in 1969, is back for his 11th season. Starting with him in the backfield will be Norm Bulaich, who led the Colts as a rookie last year with 426 yards.

Backing them will be rookie Don McCauley, the No. 1 draft choice from North Carolina who gained an NCAA record 1,720 yards in college, and veterans Jerry Hill, Tom Nowatzke and Jack Maitland.

The corps of wide receivers has been depleted with the retirement of Jimmy Orr and the trading of discontented Roy Jefferson, who caught 44 passes last year.

That leaves Eddie Hinton, who led the team with 47 receptions, and Ray Perkins as the only experienced wide receivers, but John Mackey and Tom Mitchell form a potent one-two punch at tight end.

"We hope to have a more balanced attack this year," says Coach Don McCafferty, and the stable of runners may make this possible. Last season, the Colts gained twice as much yardage in the air as on the ground.

The offensive line is back intact with Bill Curry at center, Glen Ressler and John Williams at guard and Bob Vogel and Dan Sullivan at tackle.

But the strength of the Colts again appears to be the defense, which allowed an average of 13 points over the final 12 contests of 1970.

Ends Bubba Smith and Roy Hilton anchor the front four, which lost tackle Billy Ray Smith through retirement and has tackles Jim Bailey and Fred Miller coming off knee operations. Billy Newsome and George Wright are capable reserves.

The linebacking crew of Ray May, Mike Curtis and Ted Hendricks is excellent, as are safeties Rick Volk and Jerry Logan.

Cornerbacks Jim Duncan and Charlie Stukes are young and still learning. Rookie Leonard Dunlap of North Texas State, another first round draft-choice, has looked promising.

Duncan averaged 35.4 yards on kickoff returns a year ago and Ron Gardin averaged 11.8 yards returning punts—both Colt records.

Punter David Lee had a fine 44.7-yard average and place kicker Jim O'Brien, whose field goal defeated Dallas 16-13 in the Super Bowl, give the Colts an excellent kicking game.

If the Colts stay healthy at positions where they lack depth, they should be in contention for another division title despite the tougher schedule.

1970 finish — Super Bowl champions, after winning the Eastern Division and the American Conference.

1970 record — 11-2-1 in regular season, then three more victories in postseason play.

Teams strong points — Tight defense which becomes attacking force with frequent turnover of opposition mistakes. Linebackers and safeties outstanding, with front four in same category if they stay healthy. Punting and special teams excel. Return of running back Tom Matte, out last season with knee injury.

Team weaknesses — Uncertainty at quarterback should Earl Morrall be injured while John Unitas recovers from operation for torn tendon. Wide receiver corps lacks experience. Behind starters offensive line could use more depth. Running game has possibilities, but 1970 statistics were unimpressive.

New faces: Running back Don McCaulley and defensive back Leonard Dunlap, both first-round draft choices, should see lots of action; Ohio State quarterback Rex Kern will be reserve at safety; Cotton Speyrer, acquired in trade, a reserve at wide receiver; rookie Bill Atessis and veteran Bill Laskey, obtained in trade, linebacker reserves.

Khoury Meeting

There will be a meeting of Sedalia Khoury League Soccer managers, coaches, referees and other interested persons Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room of Farm and Home Savings Association, Fourth and Osage.

All interested persons are asked to attend.

The 1971 edition of the Missouri State Fair opens Saturday, and if this past weekend was any indication of how prepared Bill Utz is for this year's International Motor Contest Association and super-modified races, he may be a strong contender once again on the half-mile and mile tracks.

Utz guided his number 98 racer to the winners' circle Saturday night at Knoxville, Iowa's annual National Super-modified Championships in the B-feature, as well as Friday at Granite City, Ill.

The weekend started early for Utz; he had to travel to Knoxville Thursday for time trials. He returned that night, only to hit the road early Friday afternoon to go to Granite City, Ill. There he won the main super-sprint feature and solidified his hold on first place in the season's point race there.

It was back to Knoxville Saturday night and on to Marshall Sunday night. In Marshall the Sedalia pilot ran second in the feature and won one of the heat races.

Utz, who has had a rough time putting things together so far this season, may be getting out of his woes just in time for the Fair dates.

Notes from the National Football League... Linebacker Willie Lanier of the Kansas City Chiefs has such a big head that when he was in college at Morgan State, none of the team's helmets would fit him. He had to borrow a size 7⅝ helmet from the Baltimore Colts... Chiefs' Johnny Robinson is one of only nine players who played in the original American Football League still active today.

The Chiefs have drafted only one offensive back and one quarterback in the first round since they moved to Kansas City. Have any idea, who they were?

They did it in back-to-back years in 1964 and 1965.

In 1964, they selected quarterback Pete Beathard from Southern California. In 1965 they tabbed Gale Sayers of Kansas. Beathard inked a contract with the Chiefs, but was later traded. Sayers, however, selected the National Football League and joined the Chicago Bears.

Here is another interesting sidelight on the Kansas City Chiefs. In the 1963 draft, can you remember what positions the old Dallas Texans were trying to strengthen in the first three rounds of the draft.

The answer is not really that hard, because they went after four tackles, two of which are now starters.

The first choice was Buck Buchanan. They had gotten two first-round choices in the 1963 draft in a trade with Oakland.

Their second first-round pick was Ed Budde. Both players are now starters, Buchanan on defense and Budde on offense.

Walter Rock and Don Brumm, both tackles themselves, were also picked up by the Chiefs in the second and third rounds respectively, but both signed contracts with the NFL.

Linebacker Bobby Bell was signed by the Chiefs after the 1963 draft. He was picked in the seventh round and signed as a tackle out of college. Since that time he has become one of the most outstanding linebackers in the American Football Conference.

There was another offensive lineman picked in the 1963 Dallas Texans' who is now a starter, but he was not tabbed until the 24th round. That was Dave Hill, who is now a starting offensive lineman for the Chiefs.

When Dick Drago steps on the mound for his next appearance with the Kansas City Royals, he will be seeking to tie a Kansas City pitching record. Drago, with 15 victories and only six setbacks, will be shooting for his 16th win of the season. A win would tie him with Bud Daley, who with the Kansas City Athletics in 1959 and 1960, won 16 games both seasons.

The Royals have drawn seven crowds of 26,000 or more so far this season in Kansas City's Municipal Stadium. They have had their top three crowds ever and the five best night crowds in their three-year history, as well.

Canadian Open Tennis Crown To Miss Durr

TORONTO (AP) — "I was slow, soft and consistent," Francoise Durr of France said after beating Australia's Evonne Goolagong in straight sets 6-4, 6-2 to win the women's singles crown of the Canadian Open Tennis Championships.

Miss Durr, seeded fourth, described her victory Monday over Miss Goolagong, the top-seeded Wimbledon champion, as "quite a surprise," especially after the Australian jumped away to a 3-1 lead in the opening set.

Miss Goolagong had troubles with her backhand, normally her strongest shot.

Miss Durr controlled the pace of the match not letting Miss Goolagong play the fast game she prefers. "She tried to make the ball faster," Miss Durr said, "but I was slow, soft and consistent."

Stargell Turns On

Jenkins Nabs 19th Win in Atlanta, 1-0

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Stargell felt the vibrations—and the Houston Astros got the shock.

Ferguson Jenkins felt like swinging—and the Atlanta Braves got kayoed.

Stargell, the major league leader in home runs with 41 and in runs batted in with 108, cracked three singles and a double and drove in four runs Monday night, pacing the Pittsburgh Pirates to an 8-3 victory over the Astros.

Jenkins, the winningest pitcher in the National League, moved closer to his fifth consecutive 20-game season, hurling a two-hitter for his 19th victory as the Chicago Cubs blanked Atlanta 3-0—with the help of a two-run double by the big right-hander.

In the other National League games, Cincinnati defeated St. Louis 6-5 and New York topped Los Angeles 6-0.

The powerful 6-2½, 215-pound Stargell had been in a slump, going 10 days without a homer, before crashing two against St. Louis Sunday. He then felt he had shaken his slump. "I could feel it when I picked up a bat," he said. "My strength was coming back. Somehow when I do that a message goes to my brain and tells me if I'm ready to hit or not."

He certainly was ready against the Astros.

Pittsburgh starter Dock Ellis was forced to leave after seven innings because of a sore elbow, which has been bothering him the past few starts.

A more serious threat to Ellis' career is a blood disease called sickle-cell anemia. Unless a cure is found, Ellis reportedly will die at a young age.

Periodically, he undergoes a "crises," during which he feels faint and passes blood. "I'm not supposed to play ball," he says, "but I can control it. I rest when I feel a crisis coming on."

Otherwise, he says, "I don't think about it. I don't worry."

The victory ended a four-game Pirate losing streak and increased their National League East lead to five games over St. Louis.

Jenkins, the high-kicking 6-5, 205-pound Cubs' ace, limited Atlanta to only two hits—Ralph Garr's single in the fourth and Earl Williams' single in the fifth. He also stopped the 22-game hitting streak of the Braves' Hank Aaron, retiring him three straight times.

He walked just one and struck out seven, giving him only 26 bases on balls and 204 strikeouts in 243 2-3 innings this season.

Jenkins, on the threshold of being the first pitcher to string together five consecutive 20-victory seasons since the Braves' Warren Spahn did it from 1956-60, said he pitches about the same against all clubs except Philadelphia—the team that traded him to the Cubs in 1966.

Garr Nailed at Second

Atlanta's Ralph Garr (48) wasn't quick enough as he attempted to steal second during the fourth inning of the Braves-Cubs' game Monday night in Atlanta. Cubs' shortstop Don Kessinger tagged Garr just before he reached the base. The Cubs, behind the pitching of Ferguson Jenkins, blanked the Braves, 3-0. (UPI)

Ballman Stars In Philadelphia Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gary Ballman was hit by President Nixon's wage freeze, but apparently it didn't have any effect on the performance of the Philadelphia Eagles' veteran wide receiver.

The 31-year-old Ballman has been squabbling over salary with Eagles' general manager Pete Retzlaff. He has refused to sign a new contract and apparently decided to play out his National Football League option.

But Monday night he caught nine passes for 166 yards and one touchdown in the Eagles' 34-28 exhibition victory over the Buffalo Bills.

"I'm not going to worry about it (the money)," Ballman said. "I learned a long time ago not to worry about anything until it comes into being."

The passing combination of quarterbacks Pete Liske to Ballman keyed the Eagles' second victory in two exhibition games. Liske played only two quarters, but completed 12 of 19 passes for 202 yards and two touchdowns.

The Eagles scored first when Happy Feller, the rookie from Texas, kicked a 25-yard field goal in the first period.

Buffalo came back to score a touchdown on a 10-play, 65-yard drive which featured the running of O. J. Simpson, who gained 29 yards, including the final two into the end zone.

Philadelphia regained the lead on a 75-yard drive that featured five pass completions by Liske, three to Ballman, who finished the drive with a nine-yard touchdown catch to put the Eagles ahead 10-7.

Buffalo, with Dennis Shaw leading the way, scored three second-period TDs to go ahead 28-10. The first came on a 25-yard pass to Simpson, the second on a 14-yard aerial to Bob Chandler and the third on a 23-yard pass to rookie J. D. Hill, the Bills' No. 1 draft choice.

The Eagles scored with 30 seconds left in the second quarter for a 28-17 halftime deficit.

Buffalo went scoreless in the second half and Liske and Ballman generated a two touchdown third-period for the Eagles.

Mark Moseley's 17-yard fourth-period field goal completed the Philadelphia scoring.

Joe Namath, recuperating in New York's Lenox Hill Hospital after knee surgery Aug. 8, is anxious to get back to football.

"I haven't even thought about giving it up," said Namath, who has undergone four knee operations.

Why?

"It's very simple. Right now I'm doing something I enjoy doing. A man's very fortunate when he makes a living at something he enjoys."

Namath thinks the Jets can still make a run at the Super Bowl, even though the team has lost its two exhibitions.

"I think we would have a better chance to win it with me—I'd be a fool not to feel that way," Namath said. "But I still think we have a good chance to go all the way."

Dr. James A. Nicholas, who has performed all four of Namath's knee operations, said a decision would be made in 12 weeks as to whether Namath can return to action this season.

The Dallas Cowboys lost two regulars in Friday's 36-21 exhibition victory over New Orleans. Tight end Mike Ditka fractured a bone in his wrist and will be out three weeks, while middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan fractured a bone below his knee and will be sidelined one week.

But the Cowboys got good news on quarterback Roger Staubach, who boosted his chances to oust regular Craig Morton by tossing three touchdown passes against the Saints. X rays showed his ribs were bruised during the game, but not broken.

He worked out with the team Monday and will not miss any exhibition action.

New Orleans acquired a linebacker and a wide receiver in a pair of trades. The Saints got linebacker Carl Cunningham from Denver in a deal for quarterback Jim Ward, then swapped cornerback Gene Heard and defensive tackle Clovis Swinney for wide receiver Charlie Williams and an undisclosed draft choice.

Quarterback Dennis Dummit, who set 15 school records at UCLA under Coach Tommy Prothro, was placed on waivers by the Los Angeles Rams Monday — by Coach Tommy Prothro.

Dummit, signed by Prothro as a free agent after all NFL clubs passed him by in the draft, completed only one of seven passes in an exhibition game against the Cleveland Browns Friday night.

MU QB's Question Marks

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Al Onofrio, Missouri's new head football coach, may be without two veteran quarterbacks when fall practice starts.

Onofrio has said repeatedly that players who are not physically sound will not be on the first or second team when practice starts for Missouri's Sept. 11 opener against Stanford.

"If they are not healthy for the start of practice, then you can't count on them for the first game," he said.

The Tigers will have a dinner meeting today, and the final preseason physical examinations will follow.

The quarterbacks, Mike Farmer and Chuck Roper, and offensive lineman Mickey Kephart are the question marks. Farmer has had knee surgery. Roper has had two operations on his right shoulder. Kephart missed spring practice because of a foot injury.

If Farmer and Roper aren't ready, Onofrio will have a choice among John Venturi, a junior, and sophomores Ed Johndrow and Mike Robb.

The Tigers will pose for photographers Wednesday and begin practice Thursday.

PITCHING — Ferguson Jenkins, Cubs, won his 19th home—tops in the National League this season—allowing Atlanta only two hits in hurling Chicago to a 3-0 victory over the Braves.

HITTING — Willie Stargell, Pirates, slammed four consecutive hits and drove in four runs, leading Pittsburgh to an 8-3 triumph over the Houston Astros.

Bosox End Losing Skid

Controversial Billy Conigliaro settled one argument in a hurry and he didn't need a press conference to do it.

Conigliaro whipped a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning Monday night, moving the Boston Red Sox to a see-saw 6-5 victory over California with his brother, Tony, watching from the stands.

The homer, Conigliaro's ninth of the season, sailed over Fenway Park's friendly left field screen, which hadn't been so friendly as the Red Sox had dropped seven straight—all of them at home.

Elsewhere in American League Monday night, Baltimore shaded Milwaukee 3-2 and Minnesota blasted Cleveland 11-2 in the only games scheduled.

Conigliaro had a falling out with some of his teammates last month about the same time that his brother left the Angels. Within a few days, the Conigliaros staged first separate and then a joint press conference to air their problems.

Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey suggested "The Conigliaros have called more press conference in one year than I have called in all the years I've owned this team."

Billy let his bat do the talking against Tony's ex-mates, and called his game-winning homer "my most satisfying hit of the year."

The Sox had rallied for three runs in the seventh inning on homers by George Scott and Joe Lahoud to wipe out a 1-0 California lead. But the Angels bounced right back for four in the eighth after an error by Luis Aparicio opened the doors.

That made it 5-3 California into the ninth but Rico Petrocelli and Scott opened with singles and Conigliaro ripped a 3-2 pitch for his game-winning homer.

Frank Robinson, not a bad hitter against anybody, raised his season's average against Milwaukee to .500—11-for-22—and helped Baltimore beat the Brewers.

Milwaukee was leading 2-0 in the fourth inning when Robinson doubled for Baltimore's first hit and came around to score on Brooks Robinson's single.

In the fifth, the Orioles loaded the bases on singles by Mark Belanger and winning pitcher Jim Palmer and a walk to Merv Rettenmund. Boog Powell forced Belanger at home but Frank Robinson delivered a two-run single.

Metro Still Has Heart in Kaycee

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Bob Lemon, the pitcher who had seven 20-win years for Cleveland, is doing a fine job managing the Kansas City Royals into what appears the runnerup spot to the Oakland Athletics in the American League West. And Cedric Tallis, who spent 20 years in the minors, is winning his spurs as a big league general manager.

But there is a man right now roaming the National League for the Royals so that come winter you can look for Kansas City to make some more of those productive interleague deals. He's Charlie Metro, regarded by knowledgeable baseball men as one of the game's best evaluators of talent.

Metro, who managed the Chicago Cubs for a spell, was Kansas City's player procurement director before they put an expansion team on the field in 1969. Metro managed the Royals when Joe Gordon quit following the 1969 season. He was replaced a year ago last June by Lemon.

"We've made some real good progress," says Metro. "I have a warm feeling for this club. I was there at the birth of the franchise."

The Royals have the nucleus of a solid club with good down the middle strength—Amos Otis in center field, Freddie Patek at short and Cookie Rojas on second. And they have some fine pitchers in Dick Drago, Mike Hedlund and Jim York.

"What I saw of Otis when we scouted him in the spring of 1969 was an absolute complete ball player," says Metro.

"I thought he might lack only power to be outstanding. But in late July he showed 15 homers. As he goes along gaining experience and gets to know the pitchers better he has the power to hit 25 to 30 homers a year. How he ever failed with the New York Mets is a mystery. We got him after the '69 season for Joe Foy.

"We got Cookie Rojas from the St. Louis Cardinals. It was not considered a big deal but Cookie took a look at our situation (around second base) and saw no complications. He came to spring training in the best shape he's been in for eight years. He lost something like 20 pounds. He has been a fantastic ball player for us.

"Cookie was offered around several times. He was a "release" ball player and now he's an all star. It's to his credit that he was able to bear down so well.

"We made a good deal with Pittsburgh, getting Freddie Patek, at 5-4 the league's smallest player. The Pirates had two fine shortstops in Gene Alley and Patek and they gave us our choice. And being a hard-nosed guy I went for Patek. We got Patek along with Bruce Dal Canton and Jerry May for Bob Johnson, who came to us from the Mets in the Otis deal.

"Some people thought Patek was too short but if you say anything derogatory about him in Kansas City they probably will hang you. He is the most popular ball player ever to play there.

"Lou Piniella is another fine outfielder. He cracked his thumb last spring but he's coming around.

"We also think we've got some pretty good pitchers. Dick Drago is knocking right on the door of the top 10 pitchers in the league.

"Mike Hedlund has been fantastic and reliever Jim York has been fine. He not only has a chance to become an outstanding relief pitcher but he can be a starter, too. We got Drago from Detroit in the fourth expansion round, York following the 1969 College World Series and Hedlund from Cleveland in the expansion draft."

It is to Metro's credit that after he was replaced as manager, the Royals retained him for one of the most important scouting jobs. He played only 171 games in the majors as an outfielder but now he feels he's even seeing more action.

Now when he goes to a game he often puts a value on as many as 20 players in one night for he scouts two teams at a time.

Importers Are Allowed Increased Duty Charge

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite President Nixon's wage-price freeze, importers will be allowed to pass on to American consumers the cost of the new 10-per-cent duty on foreign-produced goods.

The Treasury issued the ruling late Monday, after being bombarded with queries from importers who feared they would be caught in a squeeze between the price ceiling and the increased tax surcharge.

The flood of inquiries touched off by Nixon's mammoth economic package continues unabated at the Treasury and Labor departments and at the Office of Emergency Preparedness.

The following questions and answers on the freeze are based on official texts and statements and the replies of agency spokesmen concerned.

Q. How can a consumer check on whether a merchant is complying with the freeze?

A. The presidential order requires that all persons in the business of selling or providing goods or services must "maintain for public inspection a record of the highest prices or rents charged for such or similar commodities during the 30-day period ending Aug. 14, 1971."

Q. Are dividend payments and interest charges also frozen to previous levels?

A. Nixon has asked the nation's bankers to hold the line on interest. Lacking authority to control dividends, he is asking corporations voluntarily not to raise their dividend payments.

Q. What about profit margins?

A. Not covered. The ban on price increases is expected to hold profits down.

Q. What is the ceiling level?

A. Until Nov. 12, no price or wage may exceed the level that prevailed in the month ended Aug. 14, 1971. A lower price may be charged, but not a higher.

Q. Does the freeze apply to wages paid and services provided by state and local governments as well as private businesses?

A. Yes. Texas and some other states have approved pay increases for state government workers to take effect Sept. 1, but the presidential order calls for postponement of the increase until freeze ends.

Q. Can state universities raise tuitions to take effect when school starts in September? Can state public utility commissions grant rate increases?

A. The rates can be raised, but the increases cannot take effect until expiration of the freeze on Nov. 12, 1971.

Q. What about school teachers who have signed pay contracts to take effect with the opening of school in September?

A. The official answer, at this moment, is that the pay increase must be postponed. But a Treasury statement is reported in the works and may modify or clarify the government's position.

Q. Will Nixon's proposed repeal of the 7-per-cent excise tax bring a rollback in the price of new cars?

A. Yes, but only when Congress actually enacts the repeal legislation. Nixon said he will insist that the excuse saving, averaging about $200 per car, he passed on to consumers.

Q. If a scheduled wage increase is deferred because of the freeze, can the workers get the increase retroactively when the freeze ends?

A. No ruling has been made. There is no language in the President's order or White House explanatory statements providing for retroactive payment.

Q. Oregon has a cigarette tax scheduled to take effect Sept. 9. This would raise the price of cigarettes. Is such a tax increase blocked by the freeze?

A. The presidential order does not mention tax increases, and some officials doubt that a federal order could legally interfere with a state tax action.

Q. What about the 1972 model auto prices, announced by most of the companies but not yet in effect?

A. Unless the increased prices were in effect on Aug. 14 they must wait until the freeze ends.

A. That's the way the presidential order reads.

Q. What happens when the 90-day freeze expires?

A. Secretary Connally says: "I don't know." The followup procedure is to be worked out by the new cabinet-level Cost of Living Council. Nixon has directed its members to work with industry and labor leaders "to set up a proper mechanism for achieving continued price and wage stability."

Q. Does that mean some kind of wage-price guidelines, or a wage-price review board, or what?

A. Officials so far have not even given any hints.

Physicians Criticizing TV Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marcus Welby, M.D., is running into the same complaints that used to bug Dr. Casey and Kildare.

"I find that doctors complain some about the series," reported Robert Young who plays the title role in ABC's popular medical series. "It seems that their patients tell them that they aren't as compassionate as Welby—who makes night calls at 1 a.m. and often spends whole days or nights at the bedside of a sick person."

He said he felt he was in no position to take a stand on the subject or even to have an opinion.

"I am no more familiar with the medical profession and its problems than I was before the series started three seasons ago. But if I answer complaints by saying that I feel the doctors of this country are doing a fantastic job, it would sound like a whitewash.

"The truth is, of course, that we can show in a series only a fragment of life. In television, we are telling a story, a dramatic story. We realize that in real life it would not be possible for a busy doctor with many patients to stay with one of them all day or all night."

Each series segment tells a story that involves two or three persons—usually a patient and his family. Dr. Welby is usually very much in evidence.

"If he isn't there, the viewer is not involved, and if the viewer doesn't care, all is lost," the actor explained. "Welby's concentration on one patient at a time is simply a bit of dramatic license."

CBS, in a last minute shift, will add "All in the Family" to its strong Saturday night string of situation comedies. The long-playing "My Three Sons," so popular with the early-evening Saturday viewers, will be shoved into a late Monday spot following Doris Day. "Arnie," which squeaked through its first season will wind up at the tail end of the Monday night schedule. Now only three returning CBS programs will be found in the same time periods they occupied last season.

Pollution Answer?

At the end of the first day of the two-day pollution conference of Great Lakes Governors being held at Mackinac Island, Mich., all the major participants seem to be lined up as they watch Michigan Governor William Milliken feed his "no-pollution" transportation. No cars except emergency vehicles are allowed on the island, a major tourist attraction. (UPI)

Registrants Reach 2,500 at Jobs Fair

KANSAS CITY (AP) — About 2,500 veterans registered at the first Jobs Fair for Veterans in Kansas City, and some of them went away with jobs.

The fair Monday was sponsored by the National Association of Businessmen as part of a drive to find jobs for 100,000 Vietnam veterans.

Representatives of 200 companies were present to discuss job opportunities with the applicants, who mostly were about 23 years old and sincere about finding work.

The NAB made a spot check of 63 firms and found 12 of them had hired a total of 36 persons. Many other veterans got offers of interviews.

The exact number of jobs obtained will not be known for several days.

The jobs fair was the first to be conducted in the country by the NAB. If it is successful, NAB chapters in other cities will be urged to follow suit.

Agency For Stockyards Is Entering a New Era

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Packers and Stockyards Administration (PSA) is beginning its second half century of operation and Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin cites expanding services to producers and other segments of the livestock and poultry industry as the administration's key objective.

"Never has it been more important for farmers, especially the smaller operators, to have a free and open marketing system through which to move their livestock and poultry to market," Hardin said in a statement in connection with the 50th anniversary of the enactment of the Packers and Stockyards Act in August 1921.

"Maintaining honest competition in the market not only helps the farmer get a fair price, but provides the basis for confidence all the way through marketing channels," Hardin said.

The PSA is designed to safeguard farmers and ranchers from marketing practices that would deprive them of true market value for their livestock and poultry; protect consumers against misrepresentation and unfair merchandising practices; and protect those in the industry from unfair, deceptive, or discriminatory practices of competitors.

O. D. Langen PSA administrator, has emphasized his agency's goal of being more responsive to the needs of the livestock and poultry industry.

"Producers must be able to operate within a sound economic framework. If we can maintain effective competition throughout the industry, everyone, from producer to consumer, will benefit," he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has signed a new agreement with the American Sheep Producers Council, Inc., which authorizes continued deductions from program payments on shorn wool and unshorn lambs for promoting wool and lamb.

The agreement, which is in effect for wool and lambs marketed during 1971 through 1973, was approved by producers voting in a mail referendum. It enables the Council to carry on advertising and related market development activities.

Changes Are Forecast In International Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fundamental reform of the international monetary system may result from President Nixon's bid to bolster the beleaguered dollar.

Economists predict a move to make more flexible the fixed exchange rate system adopted 27 years ago by the International Monetary Fund under which non-communist nations have maintained the international value of their currencies by pegging them to the dollar.

The forum for discussion of the system will be the IMF's annual meeting to begin here Sept. 27. Finance ministers from the more than 100 IMF member nations will attend.

The system adopted by the IMF in 1944 has relied on the dollar's stability as the principal means of avoiding the international monetary chaos which characterized the depression years of the 1930s.

The United States agreed to fix the value of the dollar through a commitment to buy and sell gold at $35 an ounce. Under the IMF regulations, other nations held their currencies to a margin of 1 per cent on either side of the dollar.

But events of recent years, most notably Nixon's announcement Sunday night that the United States could cease to convert foreign-held dollars into gold, have raised serious questions about the practicality of the traditional system.

Experts who believe the system is outmoded point to the distorted value of the dollar in the free market for gold: $44 per ounce.

Questions also are posed about the legality of Nixon's decision to suspend exchange of foreign-held dollars for gold, a maneuver permitting the dollar to "float" in world markets. IMF regulations call for the free purchase and sale of gold within the prescribed limits for the settlement of international transactions.

In permitting the dollar to "float," Nixon, in effect, sought a more competitive U.S. position in world markets. The anticipated result is an overall devalued dollar, although the shutdown Monday of most major foreign exchanges in Europe, Africa and Latin America left unanswered the magnitude of the devaluation, or whether, as Treasury Secretary John B. Connally insists, the dollar may rise in relation to some currencies.

Most experts believe a U.S. devaluation of 12 to 15 per cent, combined with the upward revaluation of such currencies as the Japanese yen and the German mark, would remove some of the distortions from the present system.

St. Louis Bank Robbed By Bandit

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Southern National Bank was robbed Monday of an undetermined amount of cash by a lone bandit flourishing a toy gun.

Police said other bank employes were apparently unaware as the bandit accosted teller Gladys Turner, 42, with the toy weapon and ordered her to place money in a paper bag.

As the bandit made his exist, he dropped the toy gun at the teller's cage. The amount of the loss was not believed to be a large sum, police said.

People in the News

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon got in a round of golf Monday.

Nixon first briefed 400 to 500 sub-Cabinet-level executives in the State Department on his new economic program and then headed for the Burning Tree Club in suburban Maryland for a round of golf with Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Singer Tiny Tim, wearing wrinkled brown trousers, orange socks, a blue trench coat and canvas shoes with tassled strings, wielded a shovel Monday to help beautify downtown Baltimore.

He joined William Donald Schaefer, the city's acting mayor, for a tree-planting ceremony. "Now that you've started this, we'll try to get all dignitaries who come to Baltimore to follow this tradition," Schaefer said.

The singer planted three myrtle trees.

The ceremony, during the height of rush-hour traffic, ended with a flourish as three cars were involved in rear-end collisions while passing Tiny Tim and several Playboy bunnies.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The resignation of John S. D. Eisenhower as ambassador to Belgium has been accepted with special regret by President Nixon, the White House announced Monday.

Eisenhower, son of the late president whom Nixon served as vice president, has held the post since March 14, 1969. He gave personal reasons for leaving.

WARDS RIVERSIDE PASSENGER TIRE GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees Riverside passenger car tires (to the original purchaser) against (1) defects in material and workmanship and (2) road hazards as follows:

If the tire fails due to such defects, Montgomery Ward will replace the tire FREE during the first 20% of original tread life, and for a prorated charge based on tread wear received during the remainder of the tread life. If the tire fails due to road hazards (excluding repairable punctures) during the original tread life, Montgomery Ward will replace the tire for a prorated charge based on tread wear received.

Prorated charge is based on the regular exchange price in effect at the retail store to which returned or the current catalog price in effect at the store or agency to which returned, in either case including F.E.T. Original tread life is to the top of the tread wear indicator.

For service under this guarantee return tire with evidence of date of purchase to any Montgomery Ward branch.
